ROADHOUSE FIRE HORROR AT CHICAGO

Six Burnt To Death: Score Injured

WILDLY CLAWING MOB RUSH FOR ONLY EXIT

Chicago, To-day.

Six people were incinerated and a score injured in a fire at a roadhouse at Morton Grove, a suburb of Chicago yesterday.

The fire started in the cloak-room and the 80 occupants dashed from their seats, wildly clawing and shoving their way to the single exit. Many were trampled on while burning draperies fell on the panic-stricken crowd.

A desperate effort to release the victims was made by a motorist who drove his car into one of the walls.—Reuter.

Shanghai, To-day.

The China National Aviation Company's new tri-motored Ford plane left for Chungking at 7.50 a.m. to-day on a trial flight. It will proceed to Kwenming, Yunnan, to-morrow.

The regular Shanghai-Kwenming service is starting on April 1.—Reuter.

MYSTERY PLANE DELAYED

Long Test Flight Off Pacific Coast

WEATHER INTERFERES

Oakland, Calif., March 20.

The postponement of the test flight of the government radio-compass "mystery" plane until to-morrow because of adverse weather was announced to-day by Captain James Kinner.

The hop, he said, might begin at dawn to-morrow.

In Washington officials of the commerce department said that no flight would be made to Hawaii by the "mystery" plane. They explained that previous plans of such a flight were of a highly tentative character and were never approved by the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Roper.

The plan, they went on, is to continue test flights in which the plane will fly for long distances from the Pacific coast and return. These distances may extend for 900 or 1,000 miles offshore. By combining the outward and inward trips virtually the same distance as to Hawaii would be achieved.

Mr. Roper said that he dismissed the plan of flying to Hawaii on the ground that the tests could be

$250 FINE FOR LOITERING

Little Alyce Jane McHenry, who is waiting to have an operation at Fall River, Mass., hospital for an inverted stomach, will have a cheering visitor soon. He is Armand Martel, aged 4, of Fall River, who underwent a similar operation two years ago. He is perfectly well now and can eat as much as any youngster of his age.

COMMANDER OF GUNBOAT SAGA LEAVES

RETURNING TO JAPAN

CHINESE POLICE THANKED FOR SERVICES

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, To-day.

Lieut.-Commander E. Kanooka has assumed his post as commanding officer of the Japanese gunboat Saga in place of Commander K. Harata, who left here last week for Japan. The Saga has been stationed off Shantou during the past three years, except for a yearly visit to Formosa for overhauling.

Before leaving here, Commander Harata thanked the police authorities for their aid in the search for the translator of the gunboat, who had been away for several days, but who returned to the Saga on March 19.

It is learned that no diplomatic note was addressed to the Canton Municipal Government by Mr. Tatsuo Kawai, the Japanese Consul-General in Shantou. The fact was that the Chinese authorities were requested to assist in the search for the missing translator.

WORLD RECORD

SWIMMING FEAT BY ALICE BRIDGE

Worcester, Mass., To-day.

Miss Alice Bridge yesterday set a new world's swimming record for the 300 metres Back-Stroke event, clocking 4 minutes 32 seconds to beat Mrs. Holm Jarrett's 1932 time by 5.15 seconds.—Reuter.

WEATHER FORECAST

A weak anticyclone extends from north-east China to the Eastern Sea, and is moving eastward. The depression has deepened considerably, now being situated to the north-east of Tokyo, moving east-north-east. A depression has formed over the upper Yangtze Valley, which will probably move eastward. The local forecast for to-day, as issued by the Royal Observatory this morning, was east to south-east winds, moderate; overcast, occasional rain, coastal fog or mist.

ARMS SUPERIORITY OVER GERMANY

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS GIVEN SIR J. SIMON

BRITISH MINISTERS CORDIALLY WELCOMED IN BERLIN

Berlin, To-day.

It appears that France and Italy demand a certain amount of military superiority over Germany. They have given Sir John Simon, through Mr. Anthony Eden, certain minimum requirements on security and armaments and will watch the discussions with benevolent interest, but will not in any way be bound by the results.

It is learned that the Polish Ambassador on Saturday made a verbal demarche to Count von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, and communicated Poland's views on the situation arising from the conscription law.

Sir John Simon and Mr. Eden were cordially welcomed here yesterday. Besides some cheering there were shouts of "Heil" while they were motoring through the streets. Two hundred guests and visitors at the Hotel Adlon greeted them with a burst of applause when they returned to dress for the dinner at the British Embassy.—Reuter.

The conversations will open at 9.30 a.m. Greenwich Mean Time, in the Foreign Office and will transfer to the Chancellery at 10 a.m. when Reichkuehner Hitler will receive the guests.—Reuter.

M.C.C. TEAM FOR COLONY

Sir Julien Cahn Meets H.K.C.C. Hon. Secretary

DIFFICULTIES REALISED

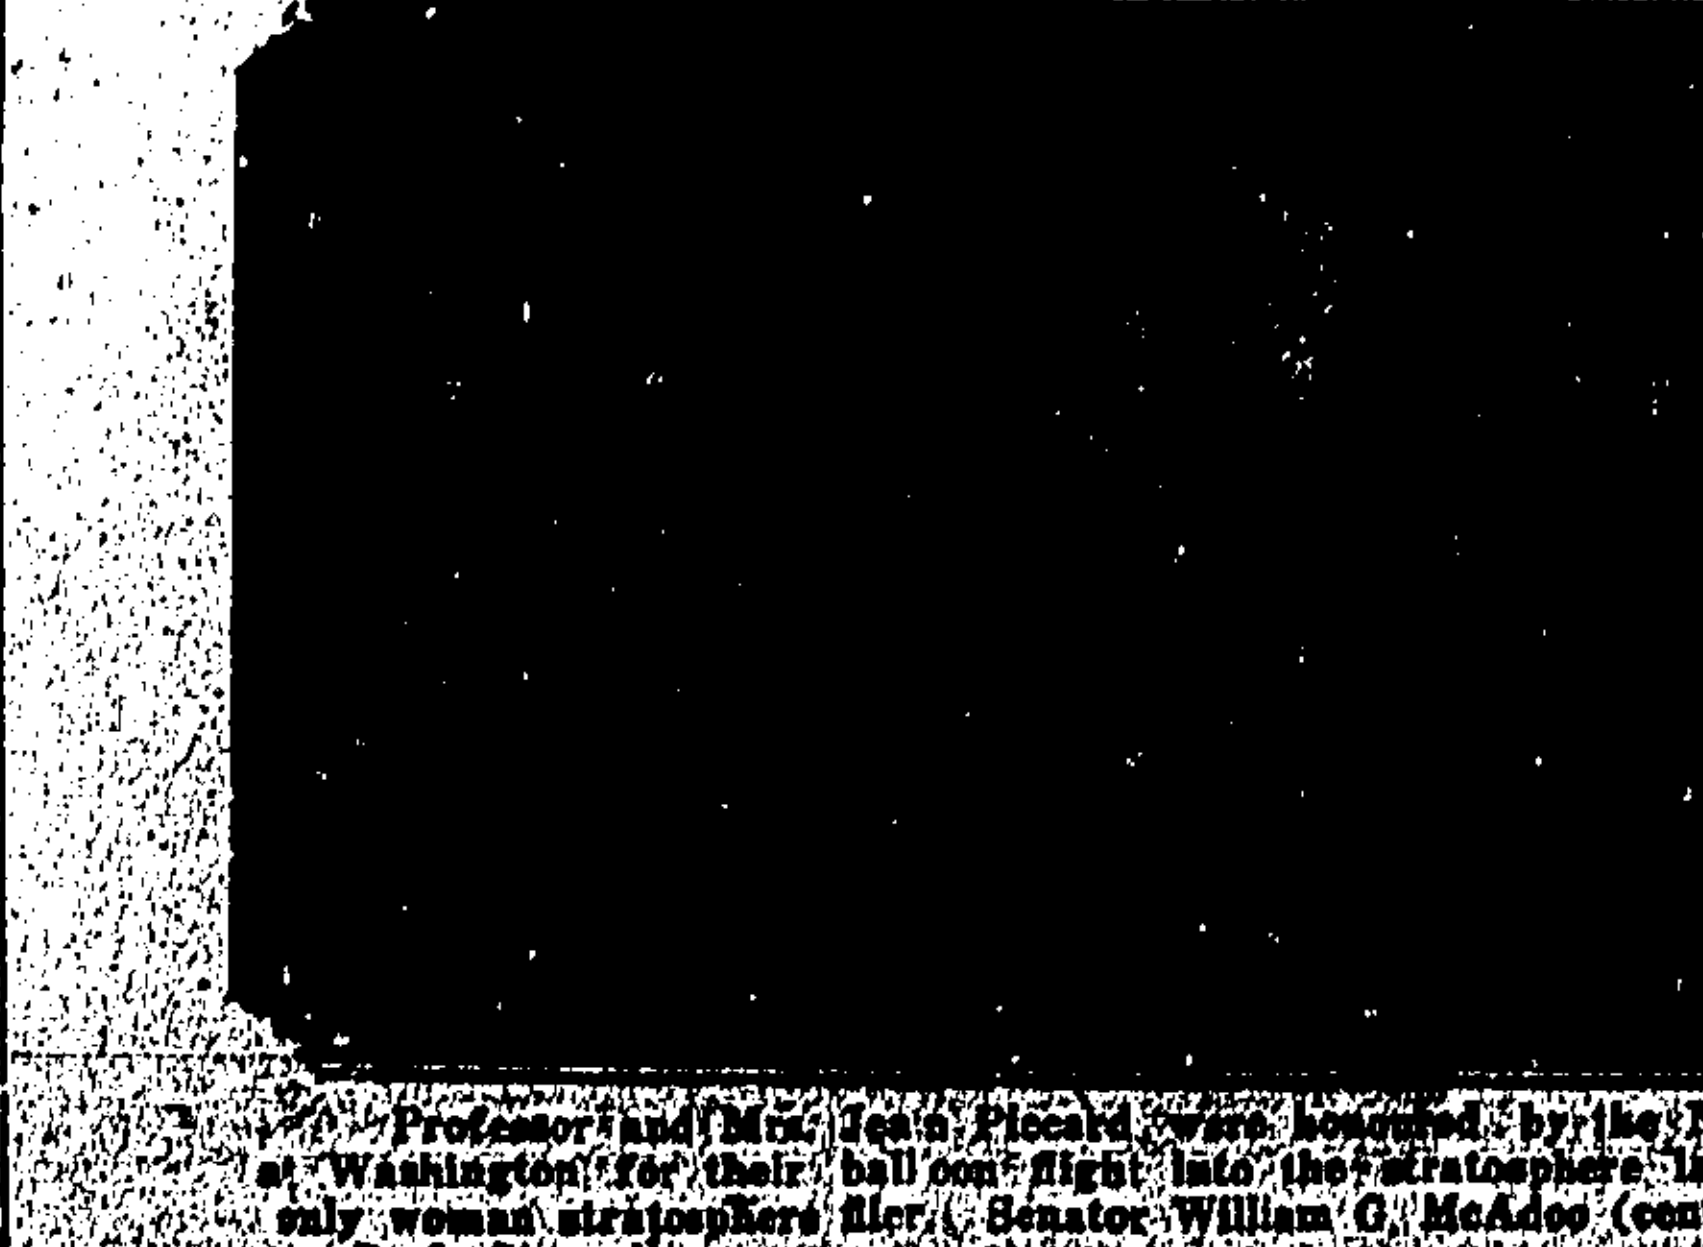

Sir Julien Cahn, the President of the Notts County Cricket Club, this morning paid a visit to Mr. A. K. Mackenzie, Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Cricket Club, and discussed the possibilities of a visit to the Colony of a cricket eleven which Sir Julien has promised he will bring out to tour India, Ceylon, and the Straits.

Sir Julien said that he was unable to come to Hong Kong during the winter season and realised the difficulty of meeting Hong Kong, whose season differs greatly from that of India, Ceylon, and the Straits.

BIRCH FOR BAG-SNATCHER

Sentence of four months' imprisonment, with 12 strokes of the birch, was passed by Mr. E. L. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on Chan Sai-sang, a 21-year-old unemployed, who appeared on a charge of snatching a hand-bag from Mrs. Ana Fajardo, of No. 3, King's Terrace.

Professor and Mrs. Picard were honoured by the National Abolitionist Association of Washington for their brilliant fight into the stratosphere last October. Mrs. Picard is the only woman starting Mrs. Senator William O. Maclay (centre) is shown handing the award to Prof. Picard.

Burying the diplomatic hatchet for one afternoon at least, these envoys to Washington, whose countries are in the throes of diplomatic difficulties, got together in true Rotarian fashion at the Rotary Club luncheon. Mr. Salto is Ambassador from Japan, Dr. Sze, Minister from China, and M. Troyanovsky is Ambassador from Soviet Russia.

STATE ATTORNEY'S NARROW ESCAPE IN CHICAGO

NATIVE STATES AND QUESTION OF FEDERATION

Discussion Resumed At New Delhi

ENDEAVOURS TO MAKE BILL ACCEPTABLE

New Delhi, To-day.

The consideration of the India Bill, especially as dealing with the Federal court and the Federal legislature were resumed yesterday at the conference of the Ministers of the Indian States, under the chairmanship of Sir Akbar Hydari.

To prevent misunderstanding, the conference spokesman reiterated that the Indian States' attitude to federation was unchanged and efforts were directed to an examination of the clauses in order that the bill, by suitable amendments, may be made acceptable to the States.—Reuter.

BIG BOMB SEIZURE IN OVIEDO

Oviedo, Spain, March 19.—A number of arms and one ton and a half of bombs were seized by the Oviedo police in the course of searches operated among the subversive elements here.—Havas.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST FRENCH IN INDO-CHINA

MANY INCIDENTS IN BORDER TOWN

SETTLEMENT DEMANDED BY KUOMINTANG

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Canton, To-day.

Protests against the detention of Chinese tax officials and army officers by Kwangchowwan authorities and the killing of a Chinese merchant at Fangshing by French soldiers were published on Saturday by numerous county Kuomintang offices, which are asking the Central Authorities to settle this matter.

"An executive officer of a Chinese battalion went to Fort Bayard to do some shopping and was put in gaol by the French authorities in Kwangchowwan," says the circular telegram setting forth the incidents. "On August 24 last year, a tax official was arrested and put in prison for several days. A company commander and four privates were arrested at Fort Bayard. A Kuomintang official who passed through Kwangchowwan in his official uniform was arrested. Many other officials who passed through Kwangchowwan, going from one Kwangtung county to another, were also arrested."

PRICE OF SETTLEMENT

These protests pointed out that Monsieur Auguste Wildgen, French Minister to China, suggested that, as a price for the settlement of these incidents, the Chinese Government should permit the inclusion of a neighbouring area from Chuenlam Bridge to Kooling as a part of the leased territory.

BELGIUM'S NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

Personnel Of Cabinet Not Yet Discussed

London, To-day.

A National Government for Belgium, under M. Van Zeeland, Vice-Governor of the Bank of Belgium, is definitely in sight. An agreement in principle has been reached between M. van Zeeland and representatives of the Catholic, Liberal, and Socialist parties, but the personnel of the Cabinet has not been discussed.—Reuter.

The Belgian Government under M. Georges Theunis resigned last Tuesday.

The Generalissimo immediately went into conference with the military leaders concerning the anti-Communist campaign.—Reuter.

Shanghai, to-day.

The identity of the vessel which sent out an S.O.S. on Saturday evening has been established as the Foochow customs preventive cruiser Hai Ho of 500 tons, which ran aground on an uncharted rock between Foochow and Amoy.

The crew were rescued by a Chinese steamer, which is standing by to prevent piracy.—Reuter.

TOURISTS GO SHOPPING

Rain Brings Trade To Local Stores

SIGHT-SEEING HELD UP

In spite of the inclement weather conditions, the Empress of Britain tourists are enjoying their brief stay in the Colony, making the most of their time visiting the hundreds of shops and curio dealers.

The stores in the Gloucester and Peninsula Arcades are doing a roaring trade, while tourists were seen this morning in many of the city's largest department stores.

Although conditions in Canton were not exactly at their best, the visitors made the best of their short stay yesterday, making many purchases in the numerous jade stores.

"There is only one drawback. The present rate of exchange is most unfavourable," said one lady.

Although trade was brisk in the city, the temporary stores erected alongside the liner on the Kowloon Wharf are not doing as well as they expected, the rain robbing them of many customers.

BOMBAY TRAGEDY

Bombay, To-day.

Major A. Raynor, of the Indian Army Ordnance Corps, was found dead to-day in a pool of blood at the hotel where he has been staying since his arrival from Hong Kong on March 9. His revolver was lying by his side.—Reuter.

BELTS, BOWS, BOUQUETS AND BUTTONS

Novelties At Fashion Displays

London. WHILE the line launched at the spring fashion openings is distinguished by its simplicity, the dressmakers have given full play to their fancy in the matter of accessories. Belts, buttons and bows rival one another in decorative effect. The newest silhouette portrait belts, in white on a dark ground, are featured on smart afternoon gowns, trimmed with buttons to match. The black edging suggests a photo frame.

The season-ticket buckle is an idea for another belt, and consists of an oblong disc with the name of the wearer, inscribed on mica. The Italian influence is seen in a belt of crushed gold leather studded with stones. The leather looks like crinkled crepe and the belt fastens at the side.

The buttons that so gaily perform the function of ornament as well as fastening may range from the old-world rose to the glass fish. In the former case they may outline the neckline effectively.

Other corsage trimmings include the navy bow that holds the shiny starched pique collar of the navy evening dress, and the "bouquet" of lifelike drum lilies fastened at the neckline.

THE HIGHWAYMAN MODES

THE "glass" medium is opaque in white, with a black ostrich feather tip in front, and anemone red with two anemone flower-heads posed at centre-front where crown meets brim, which is given a dark blue veil.

There is another highwayman shape in black "diagonal" straw—called diagonal because it is meant to be worked up thus. This hat has a long black ostrich feather plume set beneath the brim to hang down at the right side. Neckties of these new fabrics are included with hats.

ROUGE FOR DAY AND EVENING

MANY women find it necessary to have both cream and compact rouge always in stock, and different day and evening shades are advisable. Under artificial light, the complexion must not appear staring, but should have a deep, even bloom. The combined use of cream and compact rouge will give this effect.

Apply the cream rouge by the method already described; now powder lightly, dust off, then rouge with the compact. Powder again, removing surplus powder from the rouged area by pressing (not rubbing) a clean pad of cotton wool against the cheeks.

INEXPENSIVE TONICS

The average scalp is inclined to be listless, dry and much in need of general vitalising and quickening. Brushing and massaging in themselves are inexpensive tonics. With them should be used one of the new tonics, a thrice-refined oil and a stimulant combined.

MAKING BIBS

Everybody except babies wears bibs nowadays, and the point is to make an old dress new by varying them. Bibs may be flat and yet surround the neck and chest with becoming folds that do not necessarily look like napkins tucked in before dinner. The main thing is, first, to cut out in paper a becoming hole for the neck. This can be done empirically, or an old collar can be followed which has a good neck line. Once this is cut the bib can be made flat like a lung-protector, which is not particularly exciting but which sometimes gives a vest-like look. Or it can be cut to fall in ripples from the neck.

It should be remembered that the more circular the bib the more folds will fall down in front. Taking the neck line, therefore, a point should be marked on the front of the paper to which it is desired that the bib shall reach. From this point a line can be drawn which either makes a rectangle—this implies straightness—or which follows a curve, if necessary, up to the shoulders. This gives an excellent waterfall of folds in front.

Stuff matters greatly. On a dull dress something really shiny looks well. Satin crepon, which scatters the lights of the satin, looks well here and in dead white, if it suits the wearer. There are rugged stuffs which suit wool dresses, slithery stuffs which go with slithery silks, dull surfaces which make an oasis in those that are shiny. Cuffs can always be made to go with the bib. Edges can either be picoted, which has to be done by machinery, or a narrow strip of stuff can be cut levelly and exactly on the cross. It is run on the edge of the collar, turned over, and tucked in. This is not nearly so difficult to do efficiently as might seem.

NERVY PEOPLE ARE RARELY BEAUTIFUL

Nervy people are rarely beautiful. If your eyes look back at you from the mirror with a distraught expression, and your forehead is permanently creased in a worried frown, get away, when you can, from bricks and mortar and take a walk in the country. Get sunshine when there is any. Artificial sunshine is a fair substitute, and there are plenty of opportunities for getting this nowadays. A daily toasting from one of the small "home" lamps which are sold, will be very beneficial. Don't take the "buck-you-up" kind of tonic. Rather, take something soothing, with a little bromide in it to calm your nerves.

CLEANING THE SOFA

TO clean a sofa or armchair that cannot be easily taken out into the open air and beaten, or better still treated with a vacuum cleaner, try this method.

Soak a sheet in warm water, wring as dry as possible, and throw it over the chair. Beat thoroughly with a stick or carpet beater. The dust will all remain on the damp sheet instead of flying about the room.

STIFF SILKS RUSTLE AROUND PARIS

London. STIFF silks are rustling around Paris, and a great many already appear here, although how much they will be used in the Paris collections for day clothes, in addition to evening, is shrouded in mystery. These sarahs, taffetas and failles have the look, in both colour and weave, of the dress silks of 150 years ago.

WHEN DOING CROCHET WORK

Use a chamois leather finger stall when doing crochet work. This will protect the finger, and, being supple, will bend with every movement.

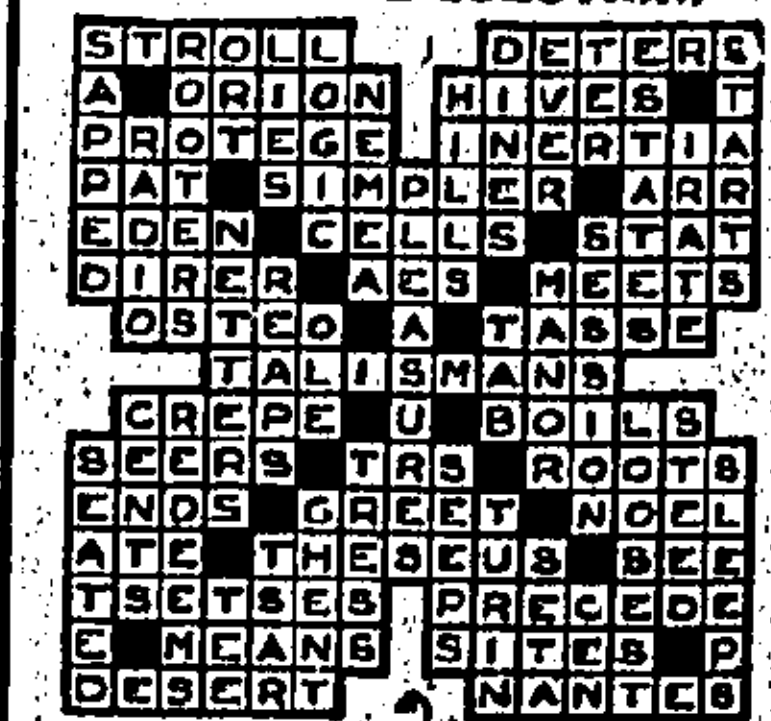

THE VISITING CARD VOGUE

London. VISITING-CARDS during the past six months or so, this correspondent was told by a specialist in stationery, have been following the slim line. Thin as the usual ivory would have been considered once upon a time, something even more so was requested, and a much thinner ivory is now the vogue. More to be desired are those in opaline, firm yet wafer-like, which practically double the capacity of any card case, leather or metal. Neat script is still accepted as best for the name and address.

EYESTRAIN CAUSES WRINKLES

Probably one of the most frequent causes of wrinkles is eyestrain. If crows feet and wrinkles are beginning to make their unwelcome appearance, make a careful examination of the lighting in your home. Reading in a poor light is a definite cause of nervous tension and lines round the eyes. Persistent headaches at the temples usually mean that a visit to the oculist is indicated.

Cinema Notes

"THE AGE OF INNOCENCE"—KING'S THEATRE

"The Age of Innocence," is authentically pictured in RKO-Radio's film version of Edith Wharton's famous novel of that name. Irene Dunne and John Boles, stars of "Back Street," are again playing the leading roles in this story which deals with a love tangle in the caste-bound social circles of New York in the Seventies.

Miss Dunne is seen as a girl who returns to her American relatives after a disastrous marital venture in Europe. Dreading scandal, the family opposes the severance of her ties with her dissolute husband. When Boles and she, drawn together by mutual tastes and a common revolt against the charm of the period, fall in love, the relatives are faced with an even more foundation-rocking scandal, since he is engaged to be married to her cousin.

Julie Haydon portrays the engaged cousin who is the perfect, trustful, clinging vine type of that "age of innocence." Others in the noteworthy cast include the five New York Theatre Guild artists, Lionel Atwill, Helen Westley, Laura Hope Crews, Herbert Vost, and Edith Van Cleve; and Theresa Maxwell-Conover and Leonard Carey.

"FORSAKING ALL OTHERS"—QUEEN'S THEATRE

An all-star cast with the speed and sparkle of "The Thin Man" is this latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Forsaking All Others," now at the Queen's Theatre.

Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, and Robert Montgomery, who are together for the first time, head the cast, which includes Billie Burke, Charles Butterworth, Frances Drake, and Ted Healy.

With a line-up of this kind, the greatest since "Dinner at Night," and with the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, this picture provides excellent entertainment.

Joan Crawford is at her best as the society girl pursued by two men, but with a great sense of humour about it, while Gable and Montgomery vie with one another for her smiles.

"BRITISH AGENT"—CENTRAL THEATRE

Kay Francis acts with sympathy and understanding in this First National production, "British Agent," the current attraction at the Central Theatre.

In "British Agent," she is Elena, the sweetheart. She is much more than a mere romantic interest, since most of the complications are the direct result of her machinations. Elena, attached to the cause of Russian freedom, is beautiful, cultured, and comes from a family that once enjoyed the favour of the Romanoffs. She believes, however, that the only hope for her people is to throw off the yoke of Czarism. She dedicates her life to the cause. She sacrifices everything in her devotion to the revolutionary leaders. When love for the "British Agent" enters into her life, she accepts it because she cannot help herself, but she never lowers the banner she is carrying for her countrymen.

To her lover, England comes first; to her Russia. Enemies to the last, even in each other's arms, she plays a part that makes her the centre of the British Agent's difficulties.

Leslie Howard, Irving Pichel, Walter Byron, and William Gar- gan are featured.

"HIDE-OUT"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

The story of the reformation of a playboy racketeer is told in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romantic drama, "Hide-Out," featuring Robert Montgomery and Maureen O'Sullivan, now at the Oriental Theatre.

Robert Montgomery plays one of his most whimsical roles as "Lucky" Wilson, the racketeer who driven from his favoured New York haunts by the relentless force of the law, realizes he has not discovered life and love until he finds himself nestling in the bosom of a simple farmer's family.

NEW MENACE FROM "CO-OP" UNION

$10,000,000 Propaganda Campaign

FORMING 10-YEAR PLAN

A menacing propaganda campaign, in which "there will be an attempt to secure a uniformity of penetration into trade by co-operative societies in all parts of the land," is being prepared by officials of the Co-operative Movement.

It is called the 10-year plan, and the full scheme will come before the Co-operative Congress at Cardiff at Whitsuntide for final approval.

Its object is the doubling of the membership of the societies and increasing the sales and extending production in proportion.

A minimum of £10,000,000 will be spent during the 10 years. All retail societies will be given a quota of development to be attained each year during the campaign.

Mr. E. Topham, an official of the Co-operative Union, stated in an interview: "Every section, every district, every society, and every available co-operator will be expected to assume responsibility for a definite share of the work of development."

"HERE COMES THE NAVY"—ALHAMBRA THEATRE

"Here Comes the Navy," Warner Bros.' smashing drama of Uncle Sam's jack-tars afloat, ashore, and in the air, is now at the Alhambra Theatre with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in the leading roles.

Based on Ben Markson's exciting story which combines romance, rollicking comedy, rapid action and breathtaking thrills, the picture is one of the most spectacular productions ever released by Warner Bros.

Cagney and O'Brien, two seamen, are the bitterest of enemies, Jim having joined the Navy just for a chance to get even with O'Brien who has knocked him cold in a fist encounter and stolen his girl, a part played by Dorothy Tree.

To add fuel to their hatred, Jim falls in love with a beautiful girl (Gloria Stuart) who turns out to be his hated enemy's sister.

Others in the cast include Robert Barrat, Willard Robertson, Guitn Williams, Howard Hickman and George Irving.

"LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?"—STAR THEATRE

The improvidence of youth, and the struggle of a young couple against dire poverty, form the plot for the story of "Little Man, What Now?" Frank Borzage's Universal drama now showing at the Star Theatre. Margaret Sullivan and Douglas Montgomery are in the leading roles.

Married almost entirely without savings, the couple struggle along on the bare existence which the young man earns as a clerk, only to have their income cease entirely when he loses his job.

In theme and treatment, "Little Man, What Now?" is reminiscent of "Seventh Heaven," Borzage's production of the silent days which still remains one of the outstanding classics of the screen. Appearing in support of Miss Sullivan and Montgomery are such popular players as Alan Hale, Hedda Hopper, George Meeker, Mae Marsh, DuWitt Jennings, Sarah Padden, Fred Kohler and Muriel Kirkland.

"TREASURE ISLAND"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

The generations of people both young and old who have been thrilled by "Treasure Island," Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story of pirate adventure, will find the vivid story-book experiences of their youth created on the screen in the picture at the Majestic Theatre, with Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in co-starring roles.

With Beery as Long John Silver and Jackie Cooper as Jim Hawkins, boy adventurer, a cast has been assembled to bring each rover of the Spanish Main to the screen with living reality. Lionel Barrymore's blustering Billy Bones is one of the most entertaining characters he has ever played. Otto Kruger is forceful as Dr. Livesey, Lewis Stone's personal knowledge of sailing ships gives convincing background to his role of Captain Smollett. Nigel Bruce is a ruddy and typically English Squirt Trellawney.

BRIDGE NOTES

Leading Against A Slam

by Ely Culbertson.

People who think the millennium is at hand do not make wills, and a good Bridge player on lead against a Slam contract does not bother much about giving his partner information that will enable him to make the right leads later in the hand, for it is very probable that his partner will have no leads to make. The Declarer is the one who will be making the leads, and he is the one to whom the Opening leader should give information—information that will prepare him to make the wrong ones. Thus in leading against a Slam, the criteria which held in leading against a game or part-score contract should often be discarded in favour of deceiving the Declarer, as they were by the West player in the following hand:

South, Dealer
Both sides vulnerable

North:
S—K 10 7 3 2
H—K 8
D—A Q J 4
C—K 9

West:
S—
H—9 7 6 4 3
D—9 8 3 2
C—J 8 3 2

East:
S—Q 9 6
H—A 10 2
D—10 7 5
C—10 6 5 4

South:
S—A J 8 5 4
H—Q J 5
D—K 6
C—A Q 7

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

South West North East
1 S Pass 3 D (1) Pass
3 S (2) Pass 4 S Pass
4 NT Pass 5 S (3) Pass
6 S (4) Pass Pass Pass

1—A slightly shaded Forcing Take-out, justified by the fine spade support.

2—South's spade suit is, strictly speaking, not rebiddable. However, South is too strong to bid only three notrump and does not want to leap into a conventional and Forcing four-notrump bid without first having found out in what suit a fit exists.

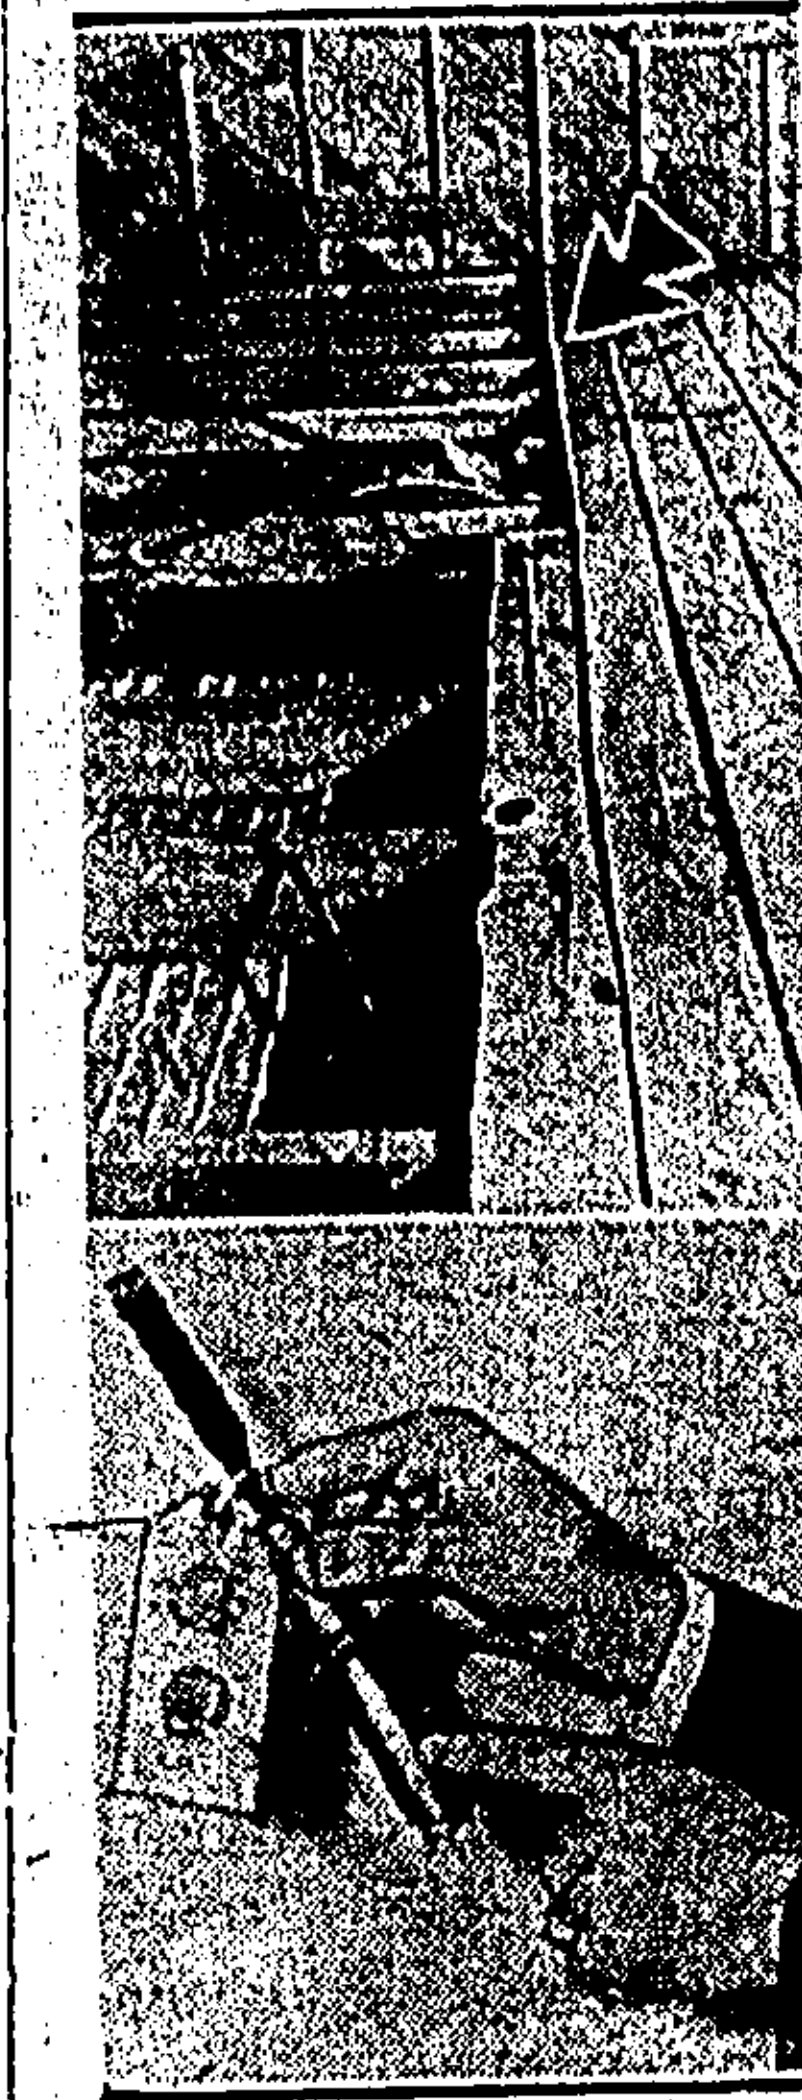

3—North has not the two Aces needed to respond with five notrump, but is willing to give the additional encouragement that a five-spade bid gives as opposed to five diamonds.

4—South naturally contracts for the Slam anyway. The Forcing Takeout and the spade assists have made South decide to contract for at least six.

Against the Slam contract, the West hand obviously has no normal lead. Because North did not bid five notrump over four notrump, West knew that some high card, which North and South obviously lacked, must be held by East. The chief hope of defeating the contract lay in his partner's ability to win a spade trick in addition, which possibility showed itself to West because of his own void in spades. Finally deciding that a neutral lead in the heart suit would be the best, West's only thought was as to his distribution. According to his lead, instead of making his sound and normal fourth-best lead of the heart four, West led the nine-spot—the top card of the five-card suit. Most unusual and unconventional, but, as will be seen, it worked.

After East won the first trick with the Ace of hearts, and returned a club, South realized that his contract was safe if he could avoid the loss of a trump trick. He further saw that to postpone drawing trumps could not help him. The only way a trump trick could be lost was, if one of the opponents held three to the Queen by first leading a high honour from the wrong hand. Having no other way of telling which of the two opponents was most likely to be void in spades, the South player came to the natural decision that, since West's Opening lead indicated shortness in hearts, it was slightly more probable that West, rather than East, held three cards in the spade suit. As a result of this reasoning, South decided to lay down his spades. As a matter of course, when West showed out, the North and South cause was lost, and the Slam contract had to go down one trick.

Admittedly, with a normal fourth-best lead from West, South would have had to toss a coin mentally to decide which spade honour to play first, and he might just as easily have guessed incorrectly as correctly were this the case. But South, having no reason to suspect the abnormality of West's lead and having no other indication on the hand, was led into making the wrong decision in the spade suit. Only the highest praise can be given to the West player. He turned an even chance into one in which the percentages heavily favoured him.

More links in the chain of evidence which was constructed by the prosecutors to drag Bruno Hauptmann to the electric chair are shown—the Hauptmann attic showing boards removed and a chisel found at the Lindbergh estate. Witnesses said that the missing boards went into the ladder found at the kidnapping scene and that the chisel belonged to Hauptmann.

MAE WEST TO MAKE B.B.C. BROADCAST

During King's Jubilee Month

OTHER NOTED RADIO STARS FROM AMERICA

During the Jubilee months several noted artists from the U.S.A. will broadcast in England. The first to arrive will be Duke Ellington, who makes a return visit. He will play at the Palladium at the end of April, and also broadcast. Duke will get a record fee for his radio appearance.

He will be followed by Mae West, who plans to be here for the Jubilee period. The B.B.C. have already been in communication with her management and arrangements are being made for her to broadcast.

Kate Smith, the radio singer, will be here during the early summer, and British listeners will be able to hear her sing her theme song, "When the Moon Shines over the Mountain."

It is almost certain that the Mills Brothers will visit England again this summer, and Bing Crosby is trying to arrange his engagements so as to make a flying trip.

BRUSSELS ENGAGES AMERICAN INDIANS

To Be Shown At 1935 Fair

A genuine village, peopled with real American redskins, is one of the picturesque attractions promised the Belgian people for the 1935 Brussels Fair. The village is being built with the help of the Associated American Indian Group and several other American societies interested in folklore and natural history.

The atmosphere of the gold-rush and covered-wagon days will be recaptured by the exhibition, when each day the Indians will perform their weird war dances and other ritual ceremonies. Permission for the different tribes to send over to Belgium their most representative types has already been granted by the United States Government.

RADIO DEFEATED IN MAMAK CLASH

K.I.T.C. FORWARDS BRILLIANT

M. H. HASSAN APPEARS AGAIN

(By "STICKS")

A brilliant display at centre-forward by Gurbachan Singh gave the Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club a two-nil victory over the Radio Sports Club in their Mamak Hockey Tournament match at Caroline Hill yesterday.

The K.I.T.C. had the game all their own way throughout the first half, but in the second the Radio dominated play.

Karnail Singh, the K.I.T.C. right back, was prominent for his hard-hitting and well directed first time clearances. He was, however, inclined to undercut, while his partner Kishan Singh, featured a good display by his great anticipation and clever stickwork.

Although good individual work was seen in the intermediate line, the half backs were not so effective as usual.

Mohinder Singh, at left-half, was the best player in the line, keeping both Jagat Singh and Surjit Singh comparatively quiet. He, however, failed to support Taram Singh, the centre-half.

D. Noronha at right-half, played steadily and at times attempted to combine with Taram Singh.

Forward Line Good

The entire forward line played good hockey, and, under the leadership of Gurbachan Singh, thoroughly tested the Radio's defence. Harbajan Singh, on the right-wing, was seen in many spectacular runs which were culminated with well-placed centres.

Playing a defensive game as well as an attacking one, J. Noronha, inside-right, gave one of his best displays this season. Throughout the first half he was dangerous in attack, but as soon as the opposing forwards began to press, he invariably dropped back to relieve the defence.

G. Singh's Brilliant Efforts

After playing below form for several weeks, Gurbachan Singh unexpectedly recovered his best form.

Pinto, at inside-left, was another player to shine. He was, however, very unlucky to receive a hard blow on his right-hand from Parduman Singh, early in the game, and this slowed his game down considerably.

The Radio's defence was good, but their forwards lacked finish. Souza, the Radio custodian, was playing below form, and should have stopped both the goals scored against him.

Parduman Singh Warned

Parduman Singh, who in the early stages of the game was warned by the referee for dangerous play, was on the top of his form and was the only defender to make an impression on the opposing forward line.

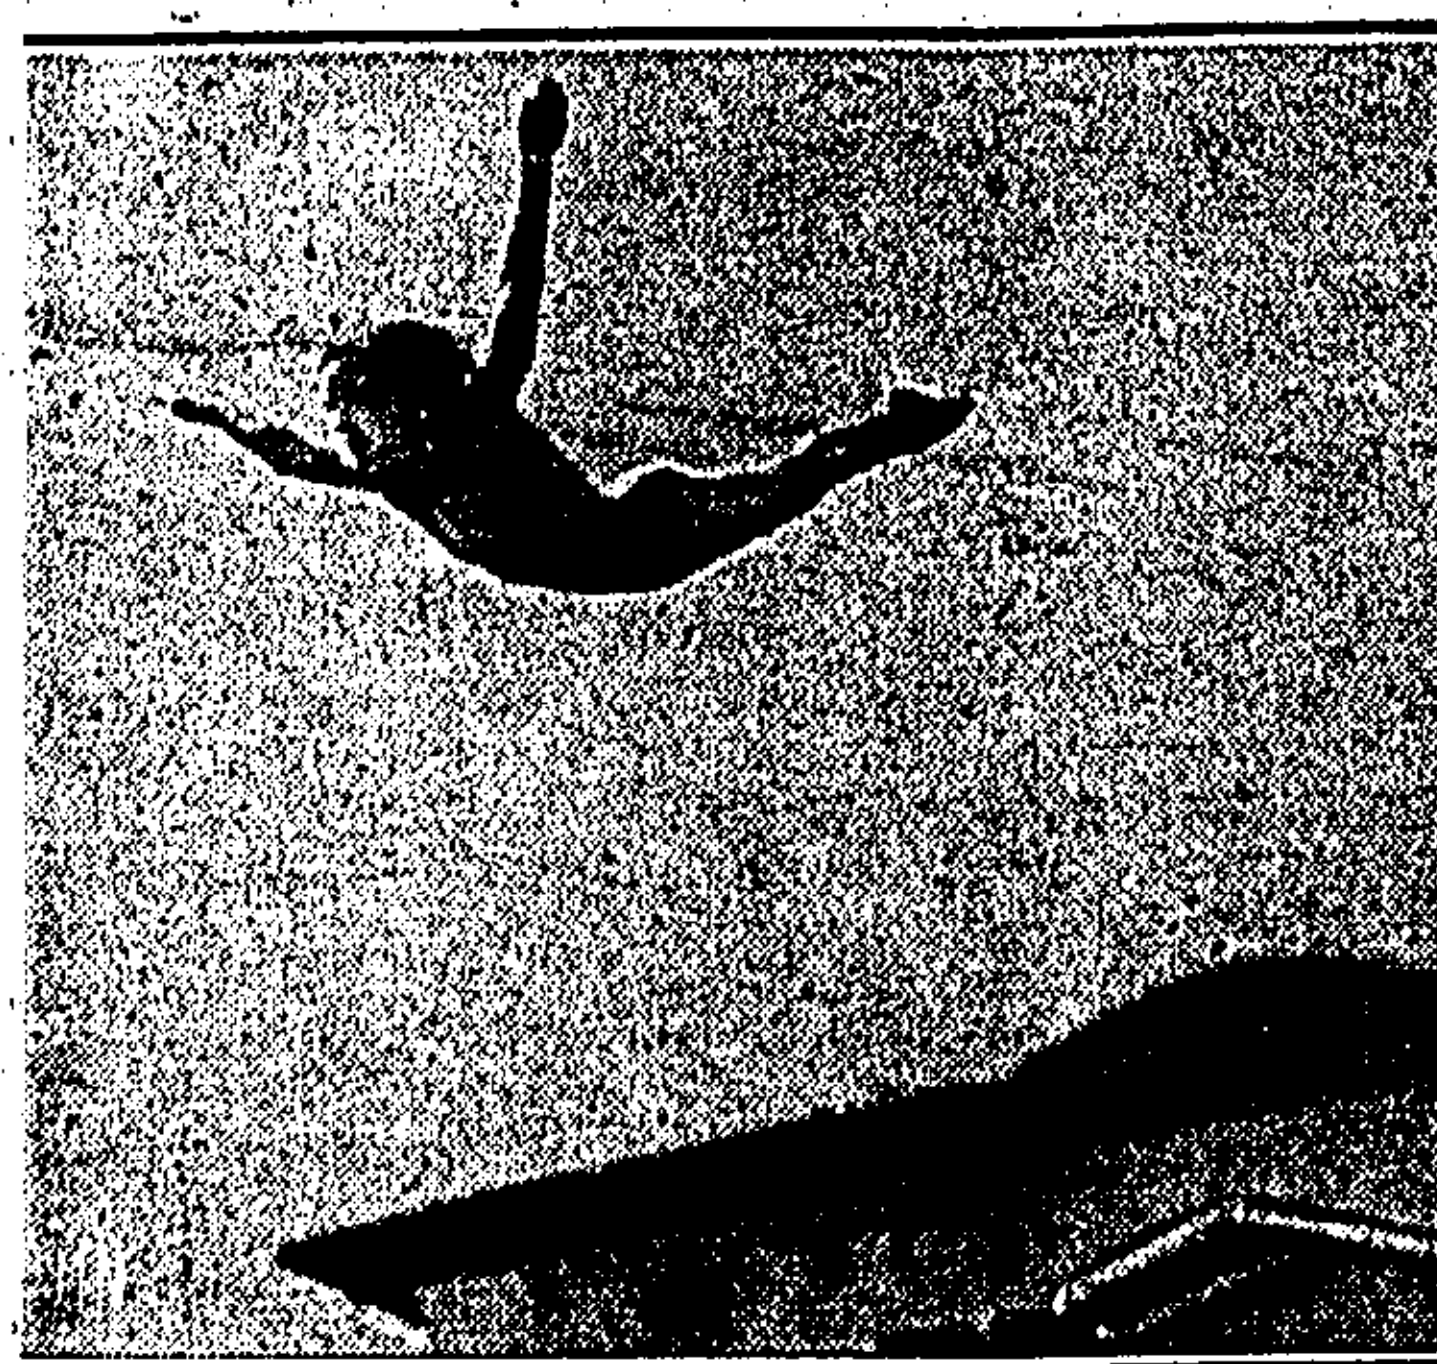

Hassan, the Radio's centre-half, who had been convalescing from a fractured ankle received at the beginning of the season, was again seen in action for the Radio. He was, however, more of a passenger than anything, as he was far too slow for Gurbachan Singh.

Awatar Singh Unassisted

Awatar Singh, at centre-forward, was the only dangerous forward, but

M.C.C. TEAM FOR CHANGES MADE IN HONG KONG

Mr. Mackenzie said it was possible that Hong Kong would be able to send a team to Singapore during Sir Julien's visit, but this would hardly be worth while unless a team representative of the Colony's best players could obtain the necessary leave.

Sir Julien said he quite saw the difficulties of leave and other minor details, and said he would communicate with Mr. Mackenzie from England when his arrangements had been completed, but this might not be possible for another two years.

Mr. Mackenzie said the matter was very much in the air at present, although Sir Julien expressed himself to be very keen about Singapore and the Straits and was all for fostering the spirit of the game there.

NEW DECKHOUSE DIMENSIONS

APPEALS DISCUSSED AT RACING ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Prince of Wales was re-elected President of the Yacht Racing Association at the annual general meeting held at the Hyde Park Hotel. Major Sir Philip Hunkloke, who presided, and Sir William Burton, K.B.E., who was also present, were re-elected vice-presidents.

Mr. E. S. Parker was again elected honorary treasurer and Messrs. C. A. Allan, Sir John Field Beale, Sir Ralph St. G. Gore, W. F. Robertson, and Viscount Bangor re-elected to the Council.

Protest Decisions

The proceedings were enlivened by a discussion on a proposal by Mr. J. Wylie Patterson, of the Royal Burnham Y.C., that the Y.R.A. Council, in giving a decision on protests on appeal, should state the reasons for its decision and its interpretation of the rules on which such decision is based. Also that the full notes be sent to the Sailing Committee concerned and published in the Association's handbook.

During the debate, Sir Philip Hunkloke said that the Council had only to deal with the interpretation of the rules, and that the Sailing Committee have to deal with the facts. If, therefore, the Sailing Committee cared to give reasons for their decision they can easily do so.

Sir William Burton was of the opinion that it would be unwise to alter drastically the existing procedure. He ultimately proposed an amendment that the Council in giving a decision on appeal will give the reasons for its decision when they think desirable, and his amendment was carried by 30 votes to 4.

Time Limit For Appeals

The Council proposed that the Association recommend to the Permanent Committee of the International Yacht Racing Union that an alteration be made in the rule governing the period of appeal in regard to protests, limiting the time to ten days. This was carried and will operate here henceforth as far as the Y.R.A. are concerned.

Struts on the booms of 12-metre yachts also came up for discussion, and the Council's proposal that the rule be amended to allow struts on booms in this class, provided that when extended they would pass through a ring of the diameter of the mast, was carried.

The Twelves will therefore be allowed to use booms of the bendable type as first set on Velsheda in 1933, and followed by some of the other big class last season.

It was agreed that the dimensions of dockhouses, in the "A" class should be 6 feet 10 inches in length, 5 feet 4 inches wide and 2 feet high at centre. These dimensions are identical with those of Endeavour.

ENGLISH WOMEN HIT CENTURIES

Holiday Cricket In New Zealand

Dunedin (N.Z.).

Three of the English women cricketers were in great form with bat and ball against Otago in a match which ended here in a draw. England scored 308 for 4 (declared) and Otago 48.

Miss MacLagan followed up her 148 in the previous match by scoring 114 and taking four wickets for 29. Miss Snowball scored 108. Both batted brilliantly, Miss Snowball giving a beautiful exhibition of crisp, forceful hitting.

Miss Hide was undefeated with 52 to her credit and took five wickets for five runs. She completely mystified the batswomen with her deliveries.

AMATEURS AND FILMS

Australia Favour Proposed Change

(By A. Wallis Myers)

It seems that the governing bodies of lawn tennis in the various parts of the British Empire are going to stick together on the question of amateur players' appearing in tennis action films without impairing their status.

Great Britain was the first to support Czechoslovakia's proposal that amateurs be permitted to receive payment for appearing in such films, and she was later followed by South Africa.

Now from Melbourne comes the news that the Australian L.T.A. has decided to support the motion at the next meeting of the International Tennis Federation, which opened in Paris on March 15.

INSPIRING DISPLAY BY RIDLEY

DETERMINATION WINS THE DAY

ROWLANDS' GREAT GOALKEEPING

(By "ROVER")

THE Army gained a splendid, though narrow, victory over South China at Causeway Bay yesterday, when they won the first match of the Kotewall Charity Cup by the odd goal in nine.

Ridley, back to form with a vengeance, gave a dazzling display, and the dogged grit and determination of the other players, forced the Chinese to a totally unexpected defeat.

South China played fast and delightful football in the first half, their forwards repeating the same clever tactics which were so successful against the Athletic last week.

EAST LANC'S WIN FRIENDLY SOCCER ENCOUNTER

KEEN CLASH WITH CHINESE TEAM

BACKS SCORE INTO OWN GOALS

On the Recrelo ground at King's Park yesterday, the East Lancs defeated the Fui Sing Athletic Association eleven by 3 goals to 1 in a friendly encounter.

The East Lancs were the first to attack and for ten minutes kept the Association penned in, erratic shooting, however, failing to produce any score.

The Association soon came into the limelight when Ip Yen-po, receiving on the right-wing, ran through to beat the East Lancs defence only to send the ball high over the bar.

Unfortunate Goal

During a period of pressure, Cheng Kam-hai, deflected the ball into his own goal when trying to clear, to give the soldiers the lead. Shortly afterwards Thorpe sent the East Lancs further ahead through Lan Ping-shun, who attempted to clear but failed to hold the ball, Thorpe seizing the opportunity to rush in and score.

Jackson's Misfortune

Following a period of raids on either goal, Jackson, the soldiers' right-back, had the misfortune to deflect the ball into his own net when heavily pressed to give the Association their only goal.

Just prior to the interval Thorpe increased the military score when, receiving a perfect centre from Evans, he sent in a first time drive to find the roof of the net.

Rowlands, the Fusilier and Army custodian, making a daring and characteristic move in yesterday's game against the South China Athletic Association. (King's Studio).

But for all their superiority, they could not force a harassed defence to concede more than two goals, and in the second period they were pegged back in their own half and frustrated at almost every attempt.

Rowlands was splendid; many of the saves he effected were bordering on the miraculous, and, though being beaten on four occasions, it was only his brilliance that kept the score down to two in the first half.

Army Backs Shaky

He could not have had much confidence in his backs, Swain and Steele, who were very shaky and wild in their kicking up to the interval, though Swain did try very hard to cover Steele's errors, and put plenty of energy into his tackling and clearing.

With the beginning of the second period however, a big change came over them, and both defenders put up a great show, kicking and positioning well, seldom allowing the Chinese near enough for a shot.

Of the halves, the quiet and methodical manner in which Keneghan held, and stopped, Lee Shek-yau, was very pleasing and when, during the later exchanges, the Chinese left-winger fell back to assist the halves, it was, in a way, an acknowledgement that in the Fusiliers right-half he had met his match.

Morton A True Pivot

Morton gave a great exhibition of clever headwork, and managed to send out some useful ground passes at times. Although hardly fast enough to hamper Fung King-cheong, he did noble work, apart from scoring one of the best goals of the match; the centre-half berth is undoubtedly his happiest position, as previously pointed out in these columns.

North was a real trier throughout, and stuck to the diminutive Young Shui-yick well, quite often getting the better of the Chinese winger in their many exciting duels.

His best work, however, was the cool way he sent out passes to Baldry and Ridley.

Army Attack Ragged

The work of the forwards was, on the whole, ragged, little cohesion being shown in their approach movements.

Ridley was here, there and everywhere in his efforts to bring the ball forward, and he inspired the whole team by his untiring and constructive work which was justly rewarded by himself gaining the "hat-trick"—an unusual event for Ridley, who is usually content with merely providing the openings.

Baldry was given little to do in the first 30 minutes, but proved his worth later in the game, when his speed and accuracy in placing the ball in the goalmouth gave Wong Wing many anxious moments.

Horne's Disappointments

The right-wing pair, English and Horne, were not prominent to any great extent and slow at first to fit in with the rest of the line, but once they had found their feet, they were conspicuous in several clever phases in the approach movements.

KID BERG DEFEATED ON POINTS

PLUCKY FIGHT WITH FRENCHMAN

WORLD TITLE HOPES DASHED

Paris, Feb. 22.

KID Berg's hope of forcing his way back into the world championship zone of light-weight boxing was shattered—and shattered finally—at the Palais des Sports here to-night, when he was beaten on points by the French champion, Gustav Humery.

The verdict was greeted by catcalls, whistling, and boos from 12,000 Frenchmen, a rather tragic accompaniment to Berg's swansong to international fame.

What had displeased the crowd no one seemed to know, for it was a magnificent fight, a replica of that great battle between these two at the Albert Hall last month, when the contest was stopped in Berg's favour after the eighth round, owing to a dangerous cut over Humery's left eye.

This time Berg was fairly and squarely beaten. Let there be no mistake about that. Those in his corner complained bitterly against the referee because he twice cautioned Berg for holding, and they also maintained that the boxers were parted when Berg had the advantage.

Unwise Announcement

What was not liked intensely, however, was an announcement through loudspeakers, to a terribly excited crowd, at the end of the seventh round, that Berg had been warned. From that moment the spectators gave him neither peace nor fair play.

Berg was beaten by a margin which, though not large, was unmistakable. At the same time, he must have won the respect of all fair-minded Frenchmen by his magnificent courage.

Berg's Ringcraft

Berg's great experience and ringcraft saved him from much punishment. Indeed, he won the first round and kept the second even, cutting Humery's nose with a left upper-cut and avoiding many of the Frenchman's fiercest blows.

But Humery's amazing strength gradually overcame Berg. Humery literally forced his way through his opponent's arms to plant mighty blows to stomach and head. Berg, however, decided to test him in the fifth round, and therein made a mistake which was nearly fatal.

He decided to exchange punch for punch, and the fight, which had been one long slog from the start, rose to a pitch which no human being could stand for long. That crescendo lasted two minutes, and at the end of it both men were exhausted, but unconquered.

Berg Dazed

In the next round came the one really dramatic moment. Humery landed a sudden right hook to the jaw; Berg clinched. He was no more than six feet from me at that moment, and I saw him screw his eyes tight and shake his head to clear his brain as he hung on desperately for a few precious seconds.

Humery did not seem to realise the damage he had done, and Berg bluffed him further by charging into an attack as soon as they were parted.

Fighting For K. O.

But as soon as the Frenchman's chance came to attack again he discovered the Londoner's weakness. Amid a deafening clamour he went for a knock-out. Never have I appreciated the stout heart and cool brain of Berg more than at that moment. He stood his ground, and by clever defence avoided the worst. But many terrific blows were driven under his left arm to the heart.

Berg produced a finish which can only be described as amazing. Despite the severe punishment he had accepted he challenged Humery to another punching match in the eighth round, similar to that in the fifth, and he had the better of it. After a ninth, in which both were obviously tired, Berg again rallied in the last round and dominated the boxing.

Humery Exhausted

Humery was the more exhausted of the two after this most gruelling of fights, and there was genuine respect and sympathy written in his face when, after the verdict was announced, he came across to congratulate his beaten opponent.

Berg had been promised a match for the European light-weight title if he beat Humery, and that match might have led him back to America in quest of the world championship. At 28, however, he must now bid adieu to such hopes and settle down to defend his British title.

At the resumption the Association took up the attack, but could not penetrate the sound defence put up by Jackson and Willington.

Goal Keepers Shine

Although both teams had their periods of attack, no further goals were scored due to the sound judgment of both the goalkeepers, Williams and Lai Ping-shun.

First Lancers: Williams; Jackson, Willington; Smith, Crooks, Ekersley; Evans, Horpe, Johnson, Carroll and Ridley.

Put Sing Athletic Assn.:—Lai Ping-shun; Cheng Kam-hai, Wong Wing-nim; Wong San, Cheung Sui-fai, Cheng Kom-tong; Ip Yen-po, Leung Kan-chi, Wong Kam-won, Tse Kan-hong and Lau Tin-sun.

was no match for the opposing defence.

From the beginning of the game, the K.I.T.C. took up the offensive and after ten minutes Gurbachan Singh netted their first goal with a neat flick shot from short range. The next goal came from the same player after beating Souza to net into an empty goal.

Radio:—Souza; Parduman Singh and Bhagwan Singh; Tavares, Hassan and Kitchell; Jaget Singh, Surjit Singh, Awtar Singh, Kalwant Singh and Kemp.

K.I.T.C.:—Ramzan; Karnail Singh and Kishen Singh; D. Noronha, Teram Singh and Mahinder Singh; Harbachan Singh, J. Noronha, Gurbachan Singh, Pinto and Souza.

The only definite opposition to the proposal so far comes from the United States. France has not yet decided her hand, but M. Pierre Gillon, president of the French L.T.A., speaking in an unofficial capacity, recently said he did not sympathise with the desire to change the amateur rule.

FOOTBALL

Sandford would probably have been more effective than Horner on yesterday's showing; the former's superior speed, bustle and shooting powers would have supplied a much-needed requirement on the right wing.

Wong Wing Uneasy

For South China, Wong Wing handled the ball quite frequently throughout, though not often troubled with a difficult shot. He played a safe game, but was clearly uneasy on the slippery ground, and had small chance of stopping the five goals sent past him.

The defence was not all it should have been, though Lau Mau gave a polished display at left-back, clearing his lines well with effortless first-time kicking and clean tackling. Tam Kong-pak, though a versatile forward, is not a fullback, and failed to give his partner very sound support, though his headwork and kicking did at times inspire a certain confidence. He had a hard task in stopping the bustling Higgins, and found the wiles of Ridley beyond him.

The strength of the Chinese lay in their intermediate line where Lim Tak-po, as the pivot, introduced in the place of Henry Young, gave a sound, all-round performance in quick ball distribution and good defensive-work.

Splendid Wing Halves

The wing halves, Leung Wing-chui and Tong Kwan, gave him splendid support, and were quick and clever in their tackles and interventions.

The Chinese attack settled down almost from the kick-off, and during those first 30 minutes, looked good for a dozen goals.

Yeung Shui-yick, and especially Lai Shui-wing, his partner on the right-wing, played a dazzling game, swinging the ball in and out with ease and precision.

Fung On Form

In the centre Fung King-cheong gave one of his finest displays, leading the line in forceful style, and giving Rowlands plenty to do with many hard drives from all angles.

The left wing, partly held in check by the efforts of Keneghan, still managed to get in some effective work in the opening exchanges, but rather faded out of the picture during the second half when the Army defence began to settle down to their task in a determined manner.

Though really a better balanced side, the Chinese lacked the determination of the soldiers to fight back when losing, and must not consider themselves unlucky to have lost so even and enjoyable an encounter.

S. China's Early Lead

South China were one goal up in the first minute, Lai Shui-wing scoring from 20 yards out with a splendid drive which had Rowlands well beaten all the way.

Eight minutes later Lai Shui-wing neatly headed in South China's second goal, following a corner kick by Yeung Shui-yick.

The Army defence was bewildered by the swift thrusts of the Chinese attack, and only the splendid work of Rowlands kept the score down.

Ridley was working hard, endeavouring to get cohesion into his forwards.

Higgins then forced his way through and passed across the goal to Ridley, who deftly turned the ball into the net from an acute angle.

Five minutes after the resumption of play in the second half, South China went ahead again when Fung King-cheong beat Rowlands with a splendid long shot.

The Army fought back grimly, and were rewarded after a brief spell of attacking when Morton sent in a perfectly-directed pillar-driver from 25 yards.

Army On Level Terms

One minute later, English quickly robbed Tong Kwan and transferred Higgins, who in turn passed to Ridley for the inside-left to crash the ball into the roof of the net and place the Army on level terms. Still playing dominant football, the Army went ahead for the first

DECISION ON DIRECT ATTACK BOWLING

RESOLUTION MADE BY DERBY AND SURREY

London, Feb. 27.

THE Advisory County Cricket Committee meeting at Lord's yesterday decided to defer any action against the Nottinghamshire club until March 21, when, at their annual meeting, the Notts policy as to "direct attack" bowling can be declared.

Yesterday's meeting was called at the request of five counties, to consider matters affecting Nottinghamshire cricket consequent upon the vote of "no confidence" in the committee passed at a recent special general meeting of members.

The Advisory Committee, whose resolutions were immediately confirmed by a subsequent meeting of the Committee of the M.C.C., decided on the assurance of the Nottinghamshire representative that "no confidence" vote was not approval of "direct attack" bowling, to defer their action.

The resolutions in full (a, b, c, and d) were proposed by Middlesex and seconded by Lancashire were as follows:

(a) That this meeting, while realising that the internal affairs of the Nottinghamshire county Cricket Club primarily concern the members and trustees of that club, consider that the counties and the well-being of cricket are intimately affected by the position in general.

(b) That this meeting considers that Nottinghamshire on occasions during the season of 1934 did not abide by the agreement reached at the joint meeting of the Board of Control and the Advisory County Cricket Committee held at Lord's on Nov. 23, 1933, whereby it was expected that the question of fast, short bowling on the leg-side would be settled by good-will and with the active co-operation of the captains.

Statement Asked For

(c) That this meeting, while noting the statement recently published that the definite policy of all parties representing the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club is to keep and abide by the rules laid down by M.C.C. in both letter and spirit, finds it difficult to reconcile this statement with the proceedings at the special general meeting of members of the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club held on Jan. 16, 1935, as reported in the Press.

(d) That this meeting, having in view the County championship of 1935, considers it essential that an authoritative statement

$38,313 FROM THE TESTS

The five Test matches between England and Australia last summer yielded gross gate and stand receipts of $38,313 12s. 5d. The official figures are:

be made on behalf of the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club as to whether it stands by the resolutions which were passed at the Advisory meeting of Nov. 21, 1934, to the effect that: (a) the type of bowling regarded as a "direct attack" by the bowler upon the batsman and therefore unfair, consisted in persistent and systematic bowling of fast, short pitched balls at the batsman standing clear of his wicket, and (b) county committees and county captains should take all steps in their power to eliminate from the game this type of bowling as now defined, and first and second-class umpires should be informed that the above is the official definition of a "direct attack," and that they will be strongly supported in any action they may take under Law 43 to prevent this type of bowling, being adopted.

Derby's Resolution

The following resolution was proposed by Derbyshire and seconded by Surrey. As in the case of the previous resolutions, it was carried unanimously, Nottinghamshire not voting:

NOTTS CLUB WILL FIND WAY OUT

No Support For "Direct Attack" Bowling.

(By Thomas Moulton)

It is fortunate that the Notts representatives were able to attend the meeting of the Advisory County Cricket Committee.

Otherwise, the interpretation which Derbyshire and Surrey appear to have put on the "no confidence" vote passed by the members of the Notts club against their committee might have been accepted by all the counties.

No one who was present at the meeting held in Nottingham on January 16 can say with any justification that the proceedings indicated "an approval of a type of bowling contrary to the spirit of the game."

The feeling of the members, the majority of whom were elderly, serious-faced men and women, was simply one of overwhelming indignation that their committee should have thought fit to apologise for the actions of a bowler in whose fairness they staunchly believed, "even if," as one speaker put it, "he did forget himself for one hour in many years."

"Shareholders will note that while we have spent money to maintain our plant and property efficiently we have also been saving, and, as already referred to, the overdraft has been reduced by a fairly considerable sum.

"In all that has been done your Board have taken a very keen interest and they have been well supported by a zealous and efficient staff, and I am very glad, once more, to testify our appreciation of their services.

Times Remain Anxious

"I need hardly remind you that the times remain anxious; competition increases and is more severe. The year 1934 has been for the whole world a year of expeditious and experiment, and, with Hong Kong, our Company has felt and is feeling the effects of the world wide depression."

Mr. P. C. Potts seconded the report and accounts, which were carried unanimously.

Mr. F. A. Joseph and Mr. J. H. Jensen, the retiring Directors, were re-elected to the Board on the proposal of Mr. P. C. Potts and seconded by Mr. H. J. M. de Figueiredo. The appointments of Mr. S. H. Dodwell, Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie, the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, and Mr. S. T. Williamson as Directors were confirmed by the proposal of Mr. Lo Koon-kan and seconded by Mr. Shum Hip-tong.

Messrs. Lowe Bingham and Matthews and Messrs. Percy Smith and Fleming were re-elected auditors at an annual remuneration of $2,000 on the proposal of Mr. T. Ramsay, seconded by Mr. Lo Koon-kan.

Two Resolutions

At the extraordinary general meeting Mr. E. Cock, the General Manager, read the following resolutions, numbered one and two (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e):

1.—That the capital of the Company be reduced from $10,000,000 (divided into 200,000 shares of $50 each of which 67,540 have been issued as fully paid) to $7,294,400 divided into 132,360 unissued shares of $50 each and 67,540 fully paid issued shares of $10 each and that such reduction be effected by cancelling capital which has been lost or represented by available assets to the extent of $40 per share in respect of each of the said issued fully paid shares of the Company of $50 each and by reducing the nominal amount of each such from $50 to $10.

2.—That immediately on the aforesaid proposed reduction being confirmed by the Supreme Court of Hong Kong:

(a) The existing certificates of all issued shares of the nominal value of $50 each shall be called in by the Directors and cancelled and that new certificates shall be issued.

(b) Each of the said existing 132,360 unissued shares of the nominal value of $50 each in the capital of the Company be sub-divided into five unissued old shares of $10 each, making in all 661,800 unissued old shares of $10 each.

(c) 135,280 of the said 661,800 unissued old shares of $10 each in the capital of the Company be offered in the first instance (in the proportion of two unissued old shares for every one issued share held by them respectively) to the members of the Company who, on a date to be decided upon hereafter by the Directors (such date to be a day as soon as possible after the date when the said reduction becomes effective), are registered in the Company's Share Register as the holders respectively of the said 67,540 issued shares of $10 each at par and so that on acceptance of the offer the amount of $10 due in respect of each of such shares offered shall be payable on acceptance and that such new shares shall vis-a-vis the issued shares, only rank for dividend as from the respective date or dates fixed by the Directors for the acceptance of such offer.

And that such offer shall be made by notice specifying the number of shares to which the member is entitled and limiting the time to be fixed by the Directors within which the offer if not accepted by the member on behalf of himself or his nominee will be deemed to be declined and that the Directors be at liberty to extend the time for such acceptance to such date or dates as they may think fit in the case of shareholders whose place of address is outside the Far East. And further that any of the said 135,280 unissued old shares which shall not be taken up by the Company's shareholders in manner aforesaid or their nominees and the balance of the 661,800 unissued old shares not so offered be disposed of in such manner at such time or times and upon such terms as the Directors shall in their absolute discretion think fit.

And further that (subject to the Companies Ordinance) the Directors be authorised to close the Register of Members for such period as they shall think fit for the purpose of determining the names of the members to whom such offer shall be made.

(d) The capital of the Company be increased from $7,294,400, consisting as aforesaid, to $10,000,000 by the creation of 270,560 new shares of $10 each, such new shares to be issued at such time or times and on such terms and conditions in every respect as the Company's Board of Directors may think fit.

(e) The new Articles already approved by this meeting and for the purpose of identification subscribed by the Chairman thereof be and the same are hereby adopted as the Articles of the Company to the exclusion of and in substitution for all of the existing Articles thereof.

After the Chief Manager, Mr. E. Cock had read the notice convening the extraordinary general meeting, the Chairman, the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, said:—

"The main Resolutions are two in number; the first dealing with the writing down of the Capital and writing off of our Reserves, and the second with the issue of fresh Capital, the subdivision of the unissued shares, the proposed new issue, increase of Capital and new Articles of Association.

Writing Down Capital
"Your Directors have given the question of writing down the Capital their most serious consideration, and, having regard to the reduced demand for our products, the conviction is forced upon us that some of our assets—without standing the fact that generally they have steadily been depreciated year by year—have not the value at which they stand in the books, and, therefore, must be written down to the extent recommended in the Resolution.

"This will necessitate the writing off of the whole of our Reserves and also writing down our Capital.

Other Similar Instances
"Various factors have contributed to this state of affairs. It is hardly necessary for me to remind you that during the past few years many Companies similar to our own have had to close up altogether; others—I need not particularise—have had to write down their Capital.

"Some of our assets which were at one time of considerable value, have for various reasons, become of so little value to the business that it is useless to continue writing so much off them each year. It is surely preferable to write them off altogether, so that in future a large proportion of our earnings may be available for dividends instead of being required each year for the writing down of worthless assets.

Dry Dock Expenditure
"I do not intend to deal with these items separately, but I feel that I must mention one very large item, namely, the initial expenditure incurred in connection with the proposed large new dry dock, which scheme, owing to the trend of events, was arrested in 1922. This scheme involved the cutting down of a hill mainly composed of rock, and the rearrangement of buildings and workshops. There appears no likelihood of prospects justifying a revival of the scheme, and there remains, therefore, a considerable area of land in the centre of our main establishment, which, owing to its position, cannot easily be made available for other purposes.

Auditors' Recommendations
"The reductions have been recommended by the Company's Auditors, jointly. They have received the most careful consideration of your Chief Manager, and are considered by your Board to be both necessary to meet the present position and in the best interests of the Company.

"If you pass the first of these Resolutions we will have the advantage of knowing exactly where we stand, and, further, as I have already pointed out, it will not be necessary to provide out of future earnings so much for depreciation.

"Referring to the second Resolution for the increase of Capital, you are no doubt aware that in the past when fresh Capital was necessary the Company did not increase its Capital, but borrowed the money from the Bank. The Company at that time was paying very large dividends to the shareholders and it was considered better to borrow the money from the Bank than call on the shareholders.

Prospects of Dividends
"Capital and Overdraft must be considered together, the increase in the former reducing the latter, and, while lately we have earned sufficient to pay the Bank interest and write off large depreciation, nothing remained for the shareholders. Whatever the future may hold your prospects of dividends are greatly increased by the proposals you are being asked to pass as resolutions, and if you take up the new shares—as I hope you will—it will give us about $1,350,000 in cash with a corresponding reduction in the overdraft.

"With the new capital there will be a reduction of interest payable to our Bankers of over $60,000 a year, which sum would be available for purposes your Board may consider best in the interests of shareholders.

Saving of $160,000

"If therefore you pass the two Resolutions before you, we will make an annual saving of about $100,000 on account of depreciation and over $60,000 on account of interest on overdraft, and, under present conditions with a continuance of patronage such as we have enjoyed during the past two years, these savings would put us on a Dividend basis. It must be understood, however, that the benefits to be derived by the reduction of Capital and the new issue will not be fully felt until 1936 as the proposed new issue cannot be made effective until about the end of this year as there are legal formalities to comply with and many shareholders are resident outside the Colony.

"The last of the resolutions proposed deals with the question of new Articles of Association, and I have nothing to add to the explanatory note which has been given.

Strong Recommendation
"I now am glad to say that your Board have been able to make arrangements to underwrite, without any commission whatsoever, any shares not taken up by the shareholders. You will see, therefore, that we are certain, if we pass these Resolutions, to get the full amount of this issue subscribed.

"I personally therefore strongly recommend the shareholders to take up this new capital, as it will enable them to participate more largely in any benefits we can make to shareholders in the future."

The resolutions were seconded by Mr. P. C. Potts and passed unanimously.

EUKUTOL

THE BIOLOGICAL SKIN TONIC
BEAUTY nowadays is not just an accidental gift of nature; it can be attained also by well thought-out and systematic care of the body, that most exquisite and wonderful organism which has come to us from the Divine hand. And although beauty is more than skin-deep, a dazzling skin is indispensable to beauty. A few minutes devoted daily to the care of your skin will keep you young and supple, healthy and attractive. "Beauty and health are the chief sources of happiness," says Beaconsfield. But how, you ask, can I appropriate beauty? Our medical, chemical and cosmetic experts have solved the question for you, Madam.

The preparations forming the foundation for the Eukutol System are the outcome of years of scientific labour, of investigations into the natural requirements of the skin, into the active elements and nutrients needed by the skin for the unremitting renewal of its beauty. The Eukutol System is explained in a small booklet and when you have read it you will join the already vast ranks of Eukutol adherents. You will have every reason to be grateful for the results of the System. Make a beginning this very evening, with a free sample from all dispensaries and stores.

Raising The School- Leaving Age

As lately as last July Lord Halifax refused to entertain proposals for raising the school-leaving age to 15. Recently the Prime Minister announced that the English and Scottish Education Departments had been instructed to re-examine the whole question. This significant change of attitude reflects the movement of public opinion during the last six months. The main ground for re-examination of the issue lies in the change of circumstances. When the Socialist Government sought, in the three Bills which it introduced during its term of office, to prolong education by a year, it had chosen its moment badly. The "bulge"—the term applied by educationists to the influx into the schools of the large numbers of children born shortly after the war—was just passing into the Senior and Central schools. Accommodation, already limited, would have been intolerably strained by the addition of another year's children, or else large capital expenditure would have been involved in the provision of school places which in a few more years would not be needed. Now, however, the "bulge" is beginning to enter industry. By 1937 it will have passed out of the schools altogether.

Accommodation was the rock on which the late Government's efforts were finally shipwrecked. Its Bill, as eventually rejected by the House of Lords, included an amendment carried against the Government in the House of Commons by the votes of their own Socialist supporters which provided that the Bill should not become operative until means had been found for reconditioning denominational schools out of public funds. Public funds, however, involve public interference, and a so-called "concordat," under which a local education authority was to have the right of appointing teachers to schools which it had reconditioned was viewed askance by many Anglicans and was repudiated by the Roman Catholic communion. Support for the higher leaving age is particularly strong among the members of the teaching profession. A new technique of democratic education was developed in the Hadow Report of 1926. It provided for two educational courses, the first of six years for children between 5 and 11, the second of four years for children between 11 and 15. To give effect to its plans the Report proposed that separate Senior and Central schools should

TRAINING RUSSIAN GIRLS

Instruction

THEY WILL BE USED IN MILITARY EMERGENCY

Over 460,000 women and girls throughout the Soviet Union are actually receiving aviation instruction from the Ossoaviachim, which is the civil organisation for training the population to participate in military operations in case of emergency, according to an announcement of its chairman.

Comrade Eidemann, who added that the total membership of the Ossoaviachim now includes 2½ million women and girls and that this number is increasing daily. No less than 41 women have qualified as aviation commanders in the Soviet Russian flying corps, while two women have been accepted by the Military Training Academy for positions in the Red Army.

WHERE DOES B.B.C. MONEY GO?

Noted Author Raises
The Question

What he terms the B.B.C.'s "skeletonised accounts," which "withhold vital information," come in for a good deal of criticism in Sydney A. Moselav's book, "Broadcasting in My Time." "Take the main item (in the accounts for the year ending December 31, 1933) of £786,345 odd for programmes," he says. "We are told, it is true, that this covers a wide field of salaries and expenses. But the information is valueless unless we are also told what proportion of the total is spent under each separate heading. 'Again there is a nice little item of nearly £90,000 for 'Administration' for pupils of 11 upwards. Steady progress has been made in putting this plan into effect. The children now change their schools when they are 11, and the teachers have experience in post-primary instruction. They find that the four years demanded by the Hadow Report is not too long a time for an education aiming at a training for life and citizenship, and their views have affected the ideas of the average parent."

HERE, THERE and EVERYWHERE

ARABIA AND ABYSSINIA

It will be interesting to see what effect the appointment of General de Bono as Italian High Commissioner for East Africa will have on the Abyssinian slave trade.

On the authority of one of our greatest African experts the main reason for the slave trade from Africa across the Red Sea is the growing sterility of the Arab women. Most Arab children are now being bred from Arab men and African women.

It is a powerful motive and will be difficult to counteract.

NO MORE HOLY WARS

A traveller who has recently returned from Africa, says that there will be no more "Jehads," or holy wars.

Islam is losing ground not only in Turkey but also in Africa.

Some years ago the Fund regime in Egypt banned the right of public meeting. Since then Waafd and other meetings are being held in mosques, where they cannot be interfered with.

Just as many Copts are present as Muslims. There is, too, the strange spectacle of women delivering political addresses in mosques.

MODERN MANNERS OF YOUTH COMPLETE CHANGE OF OUTLOOK

WHEN THE CHILDREN BECOME PARENTS—WHAT THEN?

(By Gilbert Frankau)

I HAVE on other occasions stated my belief that the present generation of youth—the "war-babies" generation—suffers from no degeneracy.

I have faith in our modern young. With the exception of a small defeatist minority, I consider that the boys and the girls of to-day are no less intelligent, no less courageous, and no less ambitious than their pre-war predecessors. Nor can I discover any deterioration in their morals.

Manners Of Youth

But that their manners—if indeed our modern young can be said to have manners—are anything but deplorable not even their warmest admirer can deny.

One does not need to be a snob—one does not need to be a great stickler for what used to be called etiquette—to voice this complaint. You hear it wherever you go. The lack of social discipline among the youth of to-day is as patent as it is unpleasant. Deportment is almost a lost art—and respect for one's elders is a vanishing quality.

All the old rules of behaviour are falling into abeyance; while the only rule of youthful conduct seems to read: "Let me, being young, express myself—even if I can only do so by eating peas with my knife."

There are, of course, many pleasant exceptions. Not every boy, even from our most exclusive public schools, can live up to the standard of a certain young friend of mine about whom it has been well said that he never forgets to replace his hat on his head when talking to a lady. And I have actually overheard, though only on one occasion, a modern daughter say to a modern mother, "Darling, I believe you're right."

Selfishness

On the whole, nevertheless, those who look for good manners in anyone under thirty must look for them with a microscope. To be casual, to be unpunctual, to be untidy, to consider one's own comfort before anybody else's convenience—these, and similar departures from the old social standard, are so commonplace that they hardly excite attention. The young are proud of such conduct. Their elders, though they complain about it, are too spineless to reprove.

We had a word, in the remote past, for any man, whether young or old, who disregarded the ordinary rules of behaviour. We called such a man, succinctly, "a cad." And just one scale above the cad we placed the "boulder." But does one ever hear those words to-day? They, like the rules of behaviour, have fallen into abeyance.

No Regard For Others
It is not considered caddish—to give just one instance—when two youths arrive ten minutes late at the theatre, trample on half-a-dozen old ladies to get to their seats, and discuss their private affairs for the remainder of the act. A young man is not considered a boulder just because he keeps eleven people waiting twenty minutes for dinner.

And who can see any sarcasm nowadays in that old, old story of the Eton boy who observed that a girl wanted a chair, of the Winchester boy who fetched that chair, and the Harrow boy who sat on it for the rest of the cricket match?

The girls of 1935 will be lucky if they are thought of at all, let alone fetched and carried for. At least if one can judge by the way they have been elbowing from the cocktail tables and jostled in the omnibuses of 1934. (Note that "omnibuses"—because, though Mayfair exhibits the worst examples of our "young casuals," are not entirely confined to one end of the town!)

Respect For Elders

I am all for personal liberty, and largely for sex equality. But I do draw the line at a personal liberty which claims the right to make long noses at all the traditions of social intercourse; and at the type of sex equality which would shout

"Yah" at all the chivalry which distinguished the past.

Respect for one's elders may be "definitely out of date." Co-education may be better than "the romantic attitude." But what will be the answer when the modern boy, in his plus-fours or his grey flannel trousers, and the modern girl, in her camel-hair coat and her sports clothes, surveying themselves in the mirror of their reflections, begin to ask themselves, "How are we going to like it if our children behave to us as we behave to our parents?"

When They Become Parents?

And this is bound to happen sooner or later. Because youth's real trouble—if only youth would realise it—is that not even its own supreme wisdom can prevent it from eventually growing up.

It is only when we grow up, alas—unless someone lams it into our adolescence with a birch, a cane, or the back of a hairbrush—that we realise the value of ritual, of tradition.

A point which was well realised by the nameless author of that Victorian slogan "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

Clearly, from those good Victorian days, there comes the memory of my twelve-years-old self, quivering under the "gig-lamps" of that prince of private-school masters "Beetle" Hawtrey.

Schoolmasters

"Frankau," thunders the Beetle, "get out of your bed. Fold those trousers properly. Hang that coat as you've been taught to hang it—on the back of your chair." Whereafter on the back of Frankau.

POLICE OFFICER'S DEATH

TRAGEDY AT KOWLOON

SUB-INSPECTOR CARSON
FOUND SHOT

Acting Sub-Inspector Thomas Carson, of the Hong Kong Police Force, was found dead with a bullet wound in his head shortly before 8 o'clock last evening in his quarters at the Kowloon City Police Station. His own revolver was found lying beside his body.

The discovery was first made by his room-boy, who had come to call him. It was stated that shortly after 7.30 p.m. while other station officers were at dinner, a sound resembling a shot was heard. No particular attention was paid to it until a wildly excited servant rushed into the mess room half an hour later. The body was found lying in a pool of blood. Life was then extinct.

Sub-Inspector Carson joined Hong Kong Police Force 13 years ago. He came out from England after the disbanding of the famous "Black and Tans" with whom he served during the Great War. For conspicuous bravery he was awarded the Military Medal.

It is understood that during the War, Carson suffered from gas poisoning. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

"How is your goldfish this morning, sir?"
"On his legs again, thank you."

H.K. And Whampoa Dock Company's Gross Profit Decrease

Reduction In Capital Resolution Adopted

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

A DECREASE in the gross profit of $40,667.88, as compared with 1933, was reported at the annual general meeting of the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company, Ltd., which was held this morning at the company's offices and which was presided over by the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, who was supported by Mr. Stanley H. Dodwell, Sir Robert Ho Tung, the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, Mr. L. Kadoorie, Mr. Felix A. Joseph, Mr. S. T. Williamson and Mr. D. Drummond (Directors) and Mr. E. Cock, M.B.E., M.L.A. (Chief Manager) and Mr. E. L. Hosie, C.A. (Secretary).

The following shareholders were also present: — Messrs. Lo Koon-han, Lo Koon-hang, H. J. M. de Figueiredo, Shum Hing-long, P. C. Potts, T. Ramsay, A. H. Potts, J. M. Turner, representing the firm's solicitors, and Mr. H. Ohl, representing the Messageries Maritimes.

Following the ordinary yearly meeting, an extraordinary general meeting was held for the purpose of passing two numbered resolutions dealing with a reduction in capital and of proposed new articles, both of which were satisfactorily adopted on the proposal of the Chairman, the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, and seconded by Mr. P. C. Potts.

In his review of the year the Chairman said:

"Before commencing the business of the Meeting, I desire to refer to the grievous loss we have sustained by the death of Mr. J. P. Warren, the upright man and wise counsellor, who was for several years Chairman of this Company.

"The Gross Profit is $40,667.88 less than last year, while the net profit of $43,385.72 is less by $9,036.16 only. This is accounted for by a saving in Bank Interest, Insurance and Depreciation. The latter, however, is on the same percentage basis as previous years.

"The profit for the year, together with $175,289.91 brought forward, leaves a sum at the credit of Profit and Loss Account of $218,675.63, which your Board recommend should be carried forward.

"The Balance Sheet is in the same form as previous years with the exception that the Staff Provident Scheme Accounts have been left out. Both the dollar and sterling funds of the Provident Schemes are invested now in separate Accounts and not intermingled with the Company's moneys, although the Company still acts as trustee.

Overdraft Reduced
"The overdraft, you will observe, has been reduced by $370,000, in addition to which $139,447.62 have been spent on necessary additions and improvements. Materials in stock and in transit and work in progress stand at $1,556,248.31.

"There was no particularly outstanding feature of our business during the year, but there are one or two points which I can dwell on a little to give you an idea of what we have been doing.

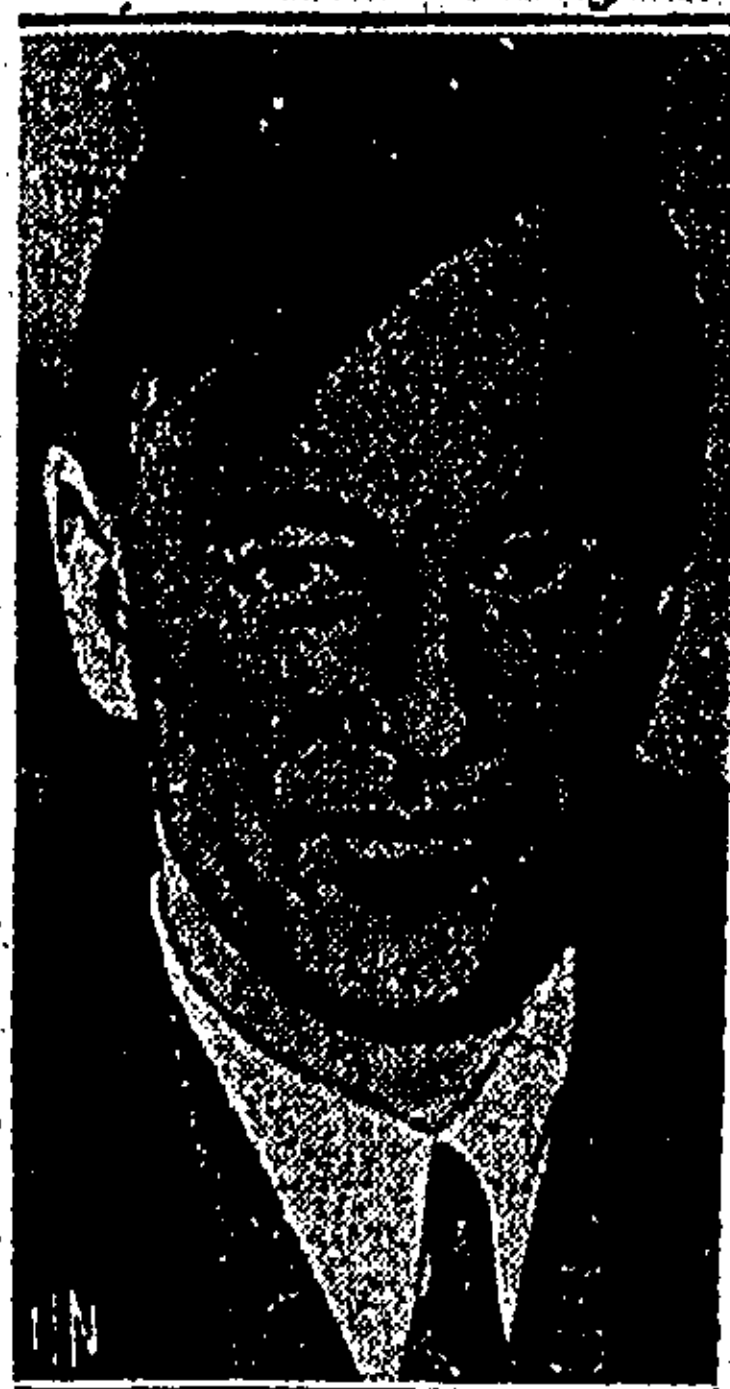

"We have made very considerable strides in two directions, electric welding and steel casting.

High Standard Welding
"In the early part of the year a trained demonstrator from one of the leading Electric Welding firms in England was brought out here, partly at our expense, and one of our European Staff, whilst on leave during 1933, had a special course in this particular art, with the result that we can really claim that our welding is up to the highest standards obtainable at home, and is being cared for in the matter of supervision by men who have a thorough knowledge of the business.

"In addition to other very important welding work, we built what is, I think, the first all-welded vessel constructed in Hong Kong. This vessel, a very small one, as it said, was designed to carry an all-welded gasoline tank, and she has been well reported on during her first few months of service.

Steel Casting Business
"Steel casting business is still small, but during the last six months of the year we made a radical alteration to the furnace and now we are consistently turning out a very high grade of mild steel casting.

"The metallurgy of steel is extremely extensive—it may surprise some of you to know that steel of any one kind, and there are many, has a very complicated structure,

MURDER TRIAL COMMENCES

Sequel To Alleged Junk Piracy

THREE FISHERMEN PLEAD "NOT GUILTY"

Three men appeared before His Honour, the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. Macgregor, at the Criminal Sessions, Supreme Court, this morning on a charge of murder. They were Chan Cho, aged 25, Ho Wing, aged 22, and Kwok Kan Tai, aged 20, all of whom are fishermen.

It is alleged that on January 15 at Tsung Shan, near Castle Peak, they boarded the junk of another fisherman, named Chan Tai Li, and killed him. All pleaded "not guilty."

Another man who was alleged to have accompanied them is not in custody.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, the assistant Attorney-General, is conducting the case for the Crown. Mr. D. McNiel, instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almada, Jr., is defending the first accused, while Mr. Lee D'Almada, Jr., instructed by Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios, and Mr. W. H. Thomas Tam, instructed by Mr. M. A. da Silva, are representing the other two accused, respectively.

The following jury was empanelled: Messrs. Alfred William da Roza (Foreman), Walter Thomas Sullivan, Dennis Latimer, James William Reeves, Ho Ping-nam, George Sinclair Rodger, and William Hyslop Brown Rigg.

Boat Anchored In Bay

Mr. Fraser, in outlining the facts of the alleged attack, said that on the night of January 15 Chan Tai Li anchored his boat at a small bay near Castle Peak. There were altogether eight persons aboard. In the forward hatch were the deceased, his wife and their two children. In the mid-way hatch were Chan Mun, brother of the deceased and his wife, while the forward hatch was occupied by two others.

The junk was boarded by four men, three of whom are alleged to have been the defendants. They were armed with a chopper, a knife, a pistol, and a file. It had not been ascertained which of them had been carrying these weapons, but it could be assumed that they all had one each.

On hearing an uproar on the deck overhead, the deceased, Chan Tai Li, opened his hatch and peered out. He was struck on the head with a

Today's Short Story

Changeling

By Colin
Howard

PADRAIC and Grania O'Toole lived in a little, white standing set like a gem in the hills, and the hills of Kerry rolled, blue and vast, above them and below them and about them. There was no other dwelling within miles of them. Their solitude was that of folk who, far from the world, find belief in another world of strange people and strange happenings easy. Rarely did they hear voices other than their own, unless, indeed, you counted the plaintive bleating of the sheep or the quiet lowing of the little black cows, that formed Padraic's stock, or the purring song of the brown mountain stream.

Until, one day, a new voice was heard. A voice that could scream and sob fretfully and chuckle in lazy contentment. And the owner of this fresh voice was small and red and crumpled, and very wonderful.

"Sure, Padraic, and isn't himself just the most marvellous thing that ever was happening?" whispered Grania, rocking the sleeping baby backwards and forwards in her arms.

And Padraic, stroking the tiny cheek with a horny forefinger that could be incredibly gentle, agreed that "himself" was.

But when little Michael was ten weeks old a disquieting thing occurred, Grania, at work over her washub on the green outside, heard choking noises coming from within. She dropped her soap into the water, leaving it to dissolve in blue, opaque swirls, and fled to her son. He was lying stretched upon the bed where she had left him. He was curiously rigid with tremors. His breath came heavily. His face was drab.

Grania had never seen a fit before, and she did not recognise it now. She approached Michael fearfully, wondering what she should do. She wished the trembling would pass—plainly she ought to do something, but what? She was still in an agony of indecision when Padraic entered, and together, they stood helpless, watching the shaking bed.

The fit went off as abruptly as it had come. The tension of the small limbs slackened, the breathing quietened to ease, and the normal colour came back to the face. Grania went to take Michael up, but he turned his eyes full upon her. They were uncanny. They looked dull, and blank, yet with a touch of something fey. Grania felt their unseeing gaze penetrate her breast to her heart. She clutched Padraic.

"Padraic, I'm frightened! What is it, Padraic?"

But Padraic was at a loss also. There was something inexplicably eerie in his son's eyes. He could not put a name to it. He did not know that, with the fit, a little cloud had settled upon the dormant intellect, a cloud temporary maybe, but none the less stifling. Yet both he and Grania, with the healthy animal's quick, instinctive perception of the abnormal, knew that something had happened. They drew closer together, and the woman took Padraic's hand.

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Expert Treatment," by Grosvenor Reeves.

All that day and the next Michael was different. No less alive, no less vital, but different. He no longer lay crooning to himself, or rolled over helplessly on his back, gurgling at his very helplessness. He lay instead staring blankly before him, and yet with a hint of something sardonic in his eyes. And Padraic knew what had happened.

"Tis the fairies that have done this upon us," he told Grania positively.

"Och, Padraic! Is it meaning ye are that they've bewitched Michael?"

"Not bewitched him. They've taken him from us."

Understanding came to her face. "And they've left us a changeling?"

"That's the way of it. Ah, why weren't we taking better care of the bitten boy, and us with a fairy ring at our very door, and the grey dew green with their footprints in the dawn? Sure they've taken our Michael, and God knows when we'll be getting him back again. And, meanwhile, it's ourselves that must be looking after their changeling."

Grania wept. "Och ochone, and what did they want to take me darlin' boy for at all, at all? And him the loveliest boy, with the heart of a lamb, and the blue of the seven seas in the eyes of him? The sad, long days 'twill be without him, and us left with a black-lookin' imp!"

Padraic stopped her nervously. "Whisht, woman, whisht! Are you wanting the little people to do a mischief to our Michael? Never be speakin' ill of the little people, the way they're the fellows with the long ears and the long hands for getting of their own back. Let us be taking good care of their changeling, the like as if 'twas our own Michael, and they'll treat Michael well, too, and someday, God send, they'll give him back to our arms."

"I'm thinkin' 'twill go sore against the mother's heart of me," said Grania, with a long-drawn, quivering sigh. "But there is truth in your words."

But Grania found it less difficult than she had imagined to care for the child. For some reason she could not understand, she felt drawn towards the solemn-eyed infant, "almost," as she expressed it to Padraic, "as if he was the child of the flesh of me, instead of the blood, green ring." And it was the same with Padraic, so that, often, they were near to forgetting that of which they were every day more convinced—that it was no child of theirs, but a fairy changeling.

As the boy grew, so his fits passed away, and the small cloud diminished and dwindled until that, too, had quite vanished. But, for all that, he was a strange child. His nature was sullen and unresponsive, and he was doggedly intractable. As the years crept through childhood, and he became more independent, Padraic and Grania loved him, as men and women do love those whom they have protected, but there was no trace of answering affection in the boy.

"I cannot be making him out at all," grumbled Padraic to his wife. "Ah, sure, we mustn't be hard on him," she replied, softly. "He's a changeling, remember. He's not like you or me. 'Tis no fault of our own."

"That I'll swear to," he said, heartily. "Faith, we couldn't have cared better for our own Michael, if the little people had let him stay with us. But 'tis ill work, and him not caring for us the way of a little finger."

Coming Presentation Of "The Young Idea"

FOUR PERFORMANCES AT CHINA FLEET CLUB

Mr. Noel Coward arrives shortly on a visit to this Colony and it is therefore perhaps fortuitous that the A.D.C. should be producing one of his best known plays, "The Young Idea," at the China Fleet Club Theatre, each evening, from April 6 to April 6 inclusive, at 9.15 p.m.

Mr. Noel Coward has been called the English Sacha Guitry, and if he has not yet written anything up to the standard of a Pasture, he is yet young and the comparison has its justice. Mr. Coward is, comprehensively, a man of the theatre: actor, playwright, composer of light music and writer of lyrics and revue sketches. He is a man of the modern theatre, not experimenting in new forms, but accepting the old and making them his instrument for the portrayal of the modern spirit.

Coward For Youth

It has been noted that the audiences of Mr. Noel Coward's plays are predominantly young and in that fact the measure of his achievement is implicit. He has the wit of his period and its emotion.

Older members of his audiences are sometimes puzzled at his methods—as in, for instance, "The Vortex." Here in the second act older people might well see a triumph of dramatic emotion, but the last act, that roused younger spectators to enthusiasm, left their elders cold and unresponsive.

Noel Coward is a phenomenon of the youth-idolatry of the age; paralleled in fiction by authors who also have enjoyed a world-success before they were 30. It is not only to the young playgoer in England that Mr. Coward appeals; he has also had tremendous successes in Germany and in the United States. Idol of the young, enfant terrible to the middle-aged, Noel Coward's career is watched with eagerness and apprehension.

Young Playwrights

There is some appropriateness and no iconoclasm in mentioning that playwrights before Mr. Coward have written when they were very young. Congreve was twenty-three when "The Old Bachelor" was performed, and only thirty at the time of his last play "The Way of the World." "The Rivals" was performed before Sheridan had reached the age of twenty-four, and "The School for Scandal" when he was only twenty-six.

Opinion will necessarily differ as to which is the best of Mr. Coward's comedies; but "The Young Idea" is a play that, not alone by its title, irresistibly suggests itself as his most representative work. It may be interesting to recall that the author himself played the part of Skello Brent in America when he was 21 and after a wards played it in London.

CRITIC DEFENDS COLLEAGUES

Kreiser, the famous violinist, is also a famous composer. He has been for years.

It was known, of course, that he composed a certain number of the works he played. But now the secret is out that—

Many of the works published, during the past 30 years, as arrangements by Kreiser of classical composers are actually his own original compositions.

There are 14 "arranged compositions" by Kreiser attributed variously to Vivaldi, Porpora, Stamitz, Couperin, and other 18th century composers, about which Herr Kreiser now says: "Every piece named . . . is in every detail my original composition."

Music critics readily attributed the basis of these compositions to the classical composers.

Into The Trap

Mr. Constant Lambert, composer and conductor, states that this sort of misunderstanding by music critics is not unusual.

And Mr. Malcolm Sargent, famous English composer says:

"I am not surprised that Kreiser has 'hoodwinked' the critics all these years. He understood his subject thoroughly, and his compositions were done cleverly and beautifully."

"Just a few of us in the musical world have known the truth about Kreiser's arrangements for some years."

Easy To Err

Mr. Ernest Newman, noted critic, defends the critics.

"It is quite easy to make a mistake about the origin of an arrangement of some eighteenth century composer," he said.

"After all, who is going to spend weeks in research work just to find out whether a piece, taking only a few minutes to play, is really the work of the composer named or not?"

Peiping.

With a view to developing the fur, leather and other industries in Inner Mongolia, a Mongolian Industrial Development Company is being organized here and articles of association have already been drafted and submitted to the Central Government for approval. According to the draft, the Company will be capitalised at $1,000,000, which will be subscribed half by the Government and half by the merchants interested.

The head office of the Company will be situated in Inner Mongolia, while branches will be established at Paotou in Suiyuan and Hsining, provincial capital of Chinghai (Kokonor).—(Chekai Agency).

WOMAN'S MEMORY CAUSES ARREST

He Snatched Her Bag In 1933

A young woman's memory was responsible for the appearance at London Sessions of Thomas Brown, aged 27, who was sentenced to three years' penal servitude on charges of stealing from handbags.

In April, 1933, it was stated, Miss Mary Wokan was walking in Hampstead when Brown asked if he could see her home. She declined the invitation, but felt her handbag being snatched and saw Brown run away.

On January 14 this year she saw him in a bus in St. John's Wood. He got off and she followed. Brown went up and spoke to her. She then kept him in conversation until a police officer arrived.

Brown pleaded guilty, and asked that 21 similar cases should be taken into consideration.

MODERN MANNERS OF YOUTH

But do to-day's schoolmasters hand out even that simple lesson in the saving of tailors' bills? Do to-day's parents say, as the parents of my generation used to say: "If you come late to supper—go without your supper?" Is there any discipline, either in the modern home or the modern school, from which youth can learn, however painfully, even the value of tidiness and punctuality?

I doubt it. I doubt—and increasingly—the whole "be yourself and do what you like, dear" theory of modern upbringing. Whose fault is it if so many of the boys and girls of to-day are growing up into social hooligans? The blame, surely, must lie a little with their schoolmasters—and even more with their parents.

As You Were

The Victorian satirist said that when our children are young they love us; when they grow up they judge us—and that sometimes they forgive us.

It will be a quaint commentary on the Georgian nursery if children now in their cradles grow up to say: "It was up to you, father and mother, to knock some sense into us. It was up to you to make us respect the things you respected. We're not going to stand any nonsense like that from our kids."

Yet that something like this will happen I feel tolerably sure.

Decision On Direct Attack Bowling Changeling

That this meeting, having considered the statement of the Committee of the Nottinghamshire steps taken by the committee Club, is of the opinion that the were in the interests of cricket. This meeting views with concern the resolution passed by the members of the Nottinghamshire Club at a special general meeting held on Jan. 16 last, which condemned the actions of their committee, and can only be interpreted as an approval of a type of bowling contrary to the spirit of the game.

On the assurance of the representatives of Nottinghamshire that the resolution was not intended to bear this interpretation, this committee defers taking any action in respect of Nottinghamshire until March 21, when at their annual meeting the policy of the club can be declared as to:

(a) The type of bowling regarded as a "direct attack" by the bowler upon the batsman, and therefore unfair, consists in persistent and systematic bowling of fast, short-pitched balls at the batsman standing clear of his wicket; and

(b) County committees and county captains should take all steps in their power to eliminate from the game this type of bowling as now defined, and first and second-class umpires should be informed that the above is the official definition of a "direct attack," and that they will be strongly supported in any action which they may take under Law 43 to prevent this type of bowling being adopted.

Board Of Appeal For Umpires

The Advisory County Cricket Committee also passed a resolution, which was later confirmed by the M.C.C. Committee, that "In view of the increased responsibility placed upon umpires, the M.C.C. Committee" he asked to appoint a Board of Appeal, to adjudicate on any adverse reports which have been submitted, and that their decision shall be final.

"No umpire to be suspended unless and until the adverse reports are confirmed by the Board of Appeal except in the case of a serious offence."

A JAIN RELIGIOUS CARAVAN

Pilgrimage Of Unshod Monks And Nuns

RESTRICTED TO ONE MEAL PER DAY

A Jain religious caravan, which some say must be the largest since the thirteenth century pilgrimages to the shrines at Palitana and elsewhere, is on its way from Ahmedabad to Junagarh, the capital of the Kathiawar State of that name.

Among those travelling are nine Gujarati millowners, 800 Jain monks and nuns walking unshod, and many eminent Jain divines. Men of wealth and women who ordinarily never leave the seclusion of the house are swelling the pilgrims' ranks, caring nothing for the discomforts of the protracted journey. The spectacular effect of the caravan is heightened by its apuritanism, which includes 1,200 bullock carts, 40 motor-omnibuses and touring cars, one elephant, 200 cooks, and 800 armed

What the consequences of their resolution might be they did not stop to think; and the independent observer at the meeting, listening to the speeches on both sides, could sympathise with them, hasty though they may seem in retrospect.

The welfare of the club as well as its players was so obviously the concern to the 2,000 members that they may be depended on at the meeting on March 21 to find a solution to their present difficulties that will be both dignified and harmonious.

Notts Point Of View

Mr. H. Seely Whitby, who led the opposition at the special meeting of the Notts members in January, strongly criticised the resolutions passed by the Advisory County Cricket Committee.

"Our special meeting," he said, "was merely to clear up suspicion which had been raised. Members of the Notts club were disturbed at having to receive news from Australia which in their opinion ought to have been announced by their own committee. "When the English team went to Australia the M.C.C. stood by our bowlers and the players. When they returned they were given a dinner and praised. Then something happened and they were snubbed."

Country Or County

The Advisory County Cricket Committee at Lord's were reminded of the understanding reached in November, 1927, which states that in the event of a cricketer being unable to accept an invitation to play in a Test or Test Trial match, he shall not be allowed to play for his county on such day or days except with the consent of the Selection Committee.

Sir Stanley Jackson Not To Retire

Johannesburg, February 27. "As far as I know there is no truth in it," said Sir Stanley Jackson, when told of the report that he was unlikely to continue as chairman of the English Selection Committee. "The matter of the chairmanship has not cropped up, and I have not given it a moment's thought," he added.—Reuter.

sepoys as orderlies. In motion the caravan looks like a heaving sea of humanity; when it stops a city is suddenly called into existence. In consonance with immemorial tradition, the pilgrims restrict themselves to one meal daily. The Jains are a non-Brahmanical sect believed to represent the earliest heretics of Buddhism. They are chiefly to be found in Bombay Presidency and are largely recruited from the commercial classes. At Junagarh there are Buddhist and Jain caves

"Tis long years, now, since Michael was taken. I wonder if we shall ever..."

"I doubt it's been over long," he said, gently. "I doubt we shan't be seeing our child again. Aye, we must just be making the best we can of it with the child we have."

But the best of it was a very sad best, for Michael had no use for the love of his parents, so that, perforce, it began to wither away. Whereat they felt guilty and unkind, and strove to atone for their unkindness with redoubled tenderness.

At eighteen, Michael was a wild, headstrong young animal, tall and straight, with a dark face and black, gleaming eyes. His disposition was sower than ever before. He helped Padraic hardly at all with the steady, and that in so shiftless a way that Padraic would have been the better for lacking his assistance.

When he could get money, he would go off by himself down the mountains into the town of Kenmare, and then he would not be seen again until he had not a penny left. He would return, weary and hangdog, ill-temper in every line of him, and he would snap roughly at his mother if she reproached him.

This getting of money for his excursions was no easy matter. Once coming unexpectedly into the cabin Padraic had found the boy pinching Grania's arm without mercy, because she could give him no more. Padraic had thrashed him fiercely, then, for all his forbidding size, Padraic had never forgotten the villainous look Michael gave him when he had shaken the boy from him. Michael had slunk away, growling and muttering, and, from a distance, had thrown a stone at his father's back.

One afternoon Michael returned from a two-days absence in Kenmare to find Padraic and Grania setting out to cut turf. Padraic led the ass, with a large pannier awaying from either flank, and Grania bore a basket for herself.

"Ye're home, Michael," said Padraic, mildly. "Will yourself be coming with us to cut turf against the winter?"

"No. It's tired out I am," said Michael, shortly.

"I have left ye some food out on the table," said Grania.

The man and the woman, with the ass, took the granite-strewn path over the mountains. Michael went into the cabin. He was hungry, and he ate the food his mother had prepared for him with appetite. As he was finishing, a voice spoke to him from the door.

"I have come to show you the grand thing of yourself, Michael O'Toole." Michael faced about with a start. A girl of his own age was standing just within the threshold. She was barefooted, and one foot was bleeding a little. Her figure sagged wearily. The shawl covering her head swept over her breast, and was gathered to swathe a bundle she held there. Michael looked darkly at her.

"What are ye wanting?"

"I've come to show ye the son."

"He jumped up."

"What! What's that ye're saying?"

"She laughed dully."

"What else were ye expectin'?"

"Here, look at him."

"She unwrapped her shawl, and exposed a young baby of two or three months. Michael stared at it in incredulous horror."

"Why did ye not tell me?"

"I haven't see ye since that time I've left. And fine and useful it would have been, in any case, the way most boys would have made an honest woman of the girl they'd treated so. But not yourself, Michael O'Toole. "I'm knowin' ye too well for that."

"Then why have ye come now?" he demanded, frowning blackly. She gave a careless gesture.

"To give the boy to yourself. Why not? I've done my part—'tis your turn now. I can't do with it, myself. What sort of a life will a girl be leading with a child, and herself yet single? I don't want it. I've brought it to you."

"But—but ye can't be doing that!" cried Michael, desperately.

"Can I not? But I've done it." "He laid the child on the bed. It sobbed loudly, uncomprehendingly, as it left the sheltering warmth of her arms, but she callously ignored its distress."

"That's all," she said, quietly. "I can't do with it. It's your turn to look after it now."

She turned, and went from the cabin. He saw her pass down the track, to vanish at a fold in the hills. He could not move. It was impossible that this awful thing had happened to him. He could not believe that it had happened. But the child was crying, with low, meaningless sobs, and he knew that it was true.

He gazed at the baby with repugnance. His son! God! Of a sudden, a clogging load of responsibility had been laden on to his shoulders. What was he to do with it? And swiftly upon that came the thought: "What would his father say?" He had always hated his father, and he had feared him, too, ever since he had thrashed him for pinching his mother. What would he say, do? Make him marry the girl, perhaps? Oh, God, why this?

In any decision was born of his terror. He slipped quickly about, gathering together what belonged to him—clothing, his shirt, a razor. He knelt by the fireplace and lifted a brick, but Padraic had found a fresh hiding-place for his money, and it was empty. The next moment Michael had gone, without another glance for the weeping little form upon the bed. He strode with stealthy haste down the mountains. He didn't know where he was going—Dublin, Galway, England, perhaps. But he was never coming back to Kerry.

It was dusk when Grania and Padraic returned from the peat-cutting. They entered the cabin. It was in darkness, and Padraic called, sharply, "Michael!" but there was no answer.

He lighted the oil-lamp. There was a faint creak from the bed, and he and Grania strained their eyes to it. As they became accustomed to the light they saw the baby lying there. It was curled up, asleep, one thumb tucked into its tiny mouth. They looked at it in awe. They walked with exaggerated caution up to the bed, and gazed down, unbelieving. The baby wakened and gave a little, throaty chuckle to see people about it once more.

"Padraic!" Grania barely dared to voice it. "They've brought him back! The little people have given our Michael back to us!" "Thanks be to heaven, they have done so," said Padraic, reverently. "After all these weary years they've reclaimed their changeling and given us back our own Michael!" They both went on their knees at the side of the bed. Grania's arms stole, venturesomely out, and enveloped the child in sudden passion. She burst into a fit of violent tears. "It's so little he's altered—look at him!" she sobbed. "Not a hair of him has changed these years, and he's still the loveliest boy, with the heart of a lamb and the blue of the seven seas in the eyes of him."

"And Padraic, looking at his wife, marvelled to see that the eighteen years had dropped from her shoulders like a cloak, and that the urge of motherhood was ripe upon her again."

In the forthcoming production the important part of "George Brent" will be played by Cyril Champkin, who will be recalled as "Philip Logan" in last season's presentation of "The First Mrs. Fraser." The juvenile leads, "Sholto" and "Gerda" will be played respectively by Donald MacAlister and Betty Fair. Mr. MacAlister is a newcomer to Hong Kong, but is well known in amateur dramatic circles in Shanghai. Betty Fair is best remembered by her wonderful success as the dream child in "Dear Brutus," a few years ago. The part of "Jennifer Brent" is in the capable hands of Beryl Gough, who made her first appearance locally in the recent production of "Fresh Fields."

"Cicely," the second wife of George Brent is played by Myrtle Brown, who has not previously appeared on the Hong Kong stage. The parts of "Priscilla Hartlebury," "Julia Cragworthy" and "Sibyl Plait" will be played respectively by "Sunny" Hole, Helen Prior and Vivienne Blackburn, who need no introduction to local playgoers.

"Clara Eccles" and "Eustace Dabbitt" will be taken by F. G. Nigel and Eric Brooks; both well known to supporters of the A.D.C. The part of "Roddy Masters" is in the experienced hands of Andrew Mackinlay, and Commander Barry takes the part of "Huddle," the butler. Mr. Donald O'Keeffe, an other newcomer to the Hong Kong stage, will play "Hiram J. Walkin," and the vivacious Italian maid, Maria, is appropriately cast in the person of Miss Renee Toledano, who also is making a first appearance on our local stage.

New Producer

The play is being produced by Mr. R. R. Campbell, of the Hong Kong University, under whose capable direction the high standard of the A.D.C. will be fully maintained.

The 'back-stage' arrangements will again be in the experienced hands of Mr. Ed. Grossman.

Booking is now open at Messrs. Anderson's. The public is urged to make early reservations to avoid disappointment, as bookings are filling up rapidly.

The Fangching incident, according to these telegrams, was that several French soldiers who were chasing an escaped convict from Indo-China opened fire on him after he had fled into Chinese territory, but instead of the convict being killed a merchant was the victim.

The county Kuomintang offices are urging the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to insist upon a settlement of these matters.

SPANISH GENERAL SENTENCED TO DIE

Barrare Guilty Of Part In Revolt

AZANA BEGINS DEFENCE

Madrid, March 20.

The Supreme Court of Spain to-day condemned to death General Emilio Barrare for participating in the revolt of August, 1932.

General Barrare was born in the Philippines. Other officers also convicted of participating in the revolt were given prison sentences.

At the same time, in Congress, Manuel Azana, former premier, appeared to conduct his own defence against charges of fomenting the Portuguese rebellion. He was given a mixed greeting in which shouts of "Down, with Azana" and "Viva Azana" mingled.

A vote against him is believed to be almost certain because of the rightist majority in the Congress. — Associated Press.

chopper, the force of the blow knocking him back into the hatch. He came out again, however, and this time was hit on the head with the pistol, carried by the first defendant.

Women Left Alone

Chan Mun managed to escape and was soon followed by his brother, leaving the women and children alone on the junk. The first defendant is then alleged to have asked for the valuables. He was given a box, which he ransacked, and, after causing further minor damage, the four attackers took the junk's dinghy and escaped to the shore, after taking the junk to another bay. The women thereupon manned the boat and sailed it back to the original scene of the attack.

Meanwhile Chan Tai Li was picked up by some person or persons unknown, who conveyed him to the Apoey Dispensary. He died before reaching there and was left propped up against the wall of the building, where he was subsequently found by the Police. Chan Mun had reported the matter to the Ping Shan Police Station.

Fifteen Deep Wounds

Dr. K. H. Uttley, Government Medical Officer at the Kowloon Hospital, was the first Crown witness called, and gave evidence concerning the wounds of the deceased. These, he said, were 15 in number, of considerable deepness, particularly those on the skull, and were inflicted all over the body. Death was due to hemorrhage and shock.

Dr. Lum was called next and stated that he had attended a man at the Ping Shan Police Station. He could not, however, identify that man as the first defendant.

Dr. A. V. Graves, Government Bacteriologist, testified as having examined the chopper. He stated that he had found hair and blood-stains on it.

The case is proceeding.
